CROWE TO KILL ALL FRATS

MELLON PUTS S. SURPLUS AT $25 MILLIONS

Five Million Notes to Retire Victory 4 1/2's

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(Special.)—In announcing today the government's May financing program, Secretary Mellon put a $25,000,000 surplus in the treasury and announced that the government would issue $25,000,000 of 4 1/2 percent Victory bonds to retire the same amount of the same issue.

The declaration by the head of the treasury department supplemented a statement made yesterday by Director of the budget bureau that there would be a surplus of at least $60,000,000 in the budget as a result of government economies, record customs receipts, and internal revenue receipts as a result of the federal income tax law.

In his review of the federal finances, Secretary Mellon gave an interesting picture of the financial situation. He stated that the government's financial position was in a healthy condition and that the government was in a position to retire its debt at a rate of $100,000,000 a year.

He also stated that the government was in a position to retire its debt at a rate of $100,000,000 a year. He also stated that the government was in a position to retire its debt at a rate of $100,000,000 a year.

CHINESE TAKE YANK HOSTAGES; WRECK TRAIN

Mrs. Rockefeller's Sister Captured.

SHANGHAI, May 7.—John Powell, Chicago Tribune correspondent, was captured by Chinese bandits who derailed the Shanghai-Peking express train at Lucheng, Shantung province, early Sunday morning.

A telegram received at Shanghai states: "Powell safe, although captured."

Abbreviated reports are conflicting, but apparently twenty-six foreign correspondents were captured and four escaped.

From 150 to 250 Chinese were captured and held for ransom. The bandits numbered 1,000 or more. One foreigner and three Chinese are reported killed and a few others injured by the train derailment.

According to one report received here, Miss Lucy Aldrich, a sister of John D. Rockefeller Jr., and a daughter of the late Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, is among the prisoners.

FOREIGNER KILLED

By Charles Bailey.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.)

BEIJING, May 6.—An express train from Shanghai to Peking was attacked by bandits near Lincheng, southwest Shantung, at 8 o'clock this morning.

One foreigner is reported killed and several others carried off as hostages. Numerous Chinese were killed and many others taken prisoner.

The news is confirmed by the ministry of communications and also by the president, who expressed deep regret that the train, not due in Peking until 10 o'clock tonight, lies in a ditch where it was wrecked when the bandits removed a rail and dug a trench, wrecking the locomotive and train of American style steel cars.

The bandits then poured a heavy fire on the passengers as they tumbled from their berths. Then they robbed the passengers.

Four May Tourists Abroad.

The train bore two cars of foreign passengers, among them Robert Scripps of the Scripps Newspaper League. It is impossible tonight to confirm the identity and nationality of the killed and kidnapped foreigners.

The ministry of communications at a late hour was unable to obtain further details, but it is believed the heavy American mail from the Empress Asia was also lost. Hotel reservations indicate that numerous tourists were aboard the train. Their fate is uncertain.

May Bring Crisis.

The incident probably is the culmination of one regarding foreign tolerance of the Peking government, since it establishes the fact that foreigners are not safe, even upon the best traveled railways.

Minister Jacob Gould Schurman, who left Peking today, having an engagement to dine Monday with the Japanese minister, may possibly express the foreign sentiment on that occasion. It was only a few days ago when the foreign office notified the diplomatic corps that travel was unsafe in the Jehol neighborhood. The ministers of America, Great Britain, France, and Japan, from whom China had delivered a virtual ultimatum that unless China is able to prevent the shooting and capture of foreigners the powers will be compelled to withdraw recognition of China.

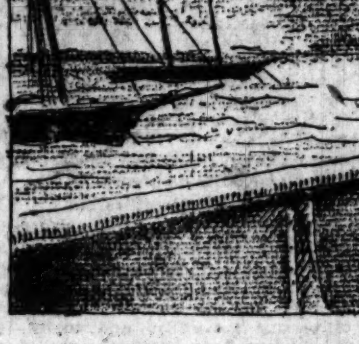

Today's outbreak, being far worse than any yet attempted, is expected to bring matters to a crisis.

Reports 300 Are Held.

LONDON, May 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Three hundred passengers, including some foreigners, were carried off by bandits who early today raided an express train from Peking to Tientsin at Lincheng Shantung, a Reuters dispatch from Peking says.

AN HEIR AT LARGE

(Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.)

PART II.—CHAPTER XXVIII.

A succession of stirring developments followed the shocking tragedy of Leroy Welby's death.

His father announced that he would resume his work as chief counsel for the state in the case against Gonlin and Weevil and would spare neither time nor effort to bring not only them to justice but others secretly associated with them. In this decision he was urged and supported by his wife, who was now as bitter in her denunciation of existing conditions as previously she had been complacent.

The newspaper accounts of the tragedy and the conditions responsible for it focused a widespread and undesirable publicity upon the university, and in consequence a flood of letters from aroused parents descended upon the president and faculty. One large supporter of the institution announced the withholding of a contemplated contribution pending evidence of a sincere effort to improve conditions. A special order was posted on the university bulletin boards notifying students that any one of them found with liquor in his possession would be summarily dismissed, as by no chance could a student have legal possession of it.

If boys in college, read the order were taught contempt for the law, the future of our citizenship was imperiled. Another development that stirred the community was the revelation that the bonds of the two defendants were found to be worthless. There was a demand that greater care hereafter be exercised regarding the reliability of bondsmen before their names were accepted. In this instance the bonds were secured by a $25,000 piece of real estate, which was transferred immediately after the bonds were signed. This disclosure had the effect of holding up to ridicule the existing bonding practices.

There was angry talk of proceeding against the bondsmen, but the insiders in the ring smiled contemptuously.

"This is just a spasm of virtue," they said. "It'll blow over. In ten days the people will forget all about it. We'll lay low for a few days, and then we'll be back to work." Gonlin and Weevil could be trusted not to talk, for they now were ten-miles off the Jersey coast safely installed on a ship that was satisfactory against search. "As long as they stay there the law can't reach them. They can sit on the deck and give the police the merry ha ha."

"Well, be sure you keep them there," advised the local enforcement officer, who did not wish his present prosperity disturbed.

FEDERATION OF LABOR BOWS TO GOMPERS SLASH

The Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday formally accepted the terms of a letter from President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor which curbed the national organization's monthly contribution of half of the running expenses of the local federation.

It is declared that the federation's chairman, William Z. Foster, of the United Educational League was largely responsible for Gompers' action, although this was denied at the meeting by John Fitzpatrick and Edward Nockels, president and secretary respectively of the Chicago federation, when the report of the executive committee accepting the reduction was read.

The executive committee of the national body tomorrow will, it is believed, support President Gompers' action in depriving the Chicago federation of this contribution.

SIoux GOES OUT FOR UNCLE SAM'S SCALP OF GOLD

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(Special.)—The American Indian has again joined the war and scalping knife for the weapons of the white man. The great Sioux nation will sue the United States for payment for lands and property taken from the Sioux by the whites, and the amount of the claim, with interest, is not less than three-quarters of a billion dollars. This suit will be filed tomorrow in the United States Court of Claims.

The Sioux will bring action on forty separate counts for a total of over $219,000,000 and demand interest on most of the items, which in total makes this suit the largest suit ever filed in any court at any time.

The Sioux say the United States has left undone things which ought to have been done under the treaties of 1851 and 1868; that millions of acres of their tribal lands were taken from them; that their game was slaughtered by the whites, and their money spent by the United States for improper purposes.

Foremost of all their claims is the demand for $150,000,000, with interest thereon, for the Black Hills and surrounding area, taken from them, they say, by force and by arms in 1874 and 1875; and they claim the United States permitted and connived in this taking.

Crabpicking boats were employed at first to drag the waters of the quarry, but failed to plumb the depths. It was stated that if the fire engines were unsuccessful a diver would be sent down to the bottom.

SEARCH QUARRY FOR LINCOLN; MAY USE DIVER TODAY

Crabpicking boats were employed at first to drag the waters of the quarry, but failed to plumb the depths. Air Flivver Does 80 Miles on $1.38 Gas

By Henry Wales.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.)

CALAIS, May 6.—Consuming four gallons of gasoline, costing $1.23, and 15 cents' worth of oil, Georges Barbot, starting in his airplane at 5 p. m. today, flew across to England and back, eighty miles in all.

Georges' spin netted him 24,965 francs (about $3,750), because he won the 25,000 franc prize given by the Paris newspaper, Matin, for the first air flier crossing the channel and returning the same day. On the debit side of the account fuel, wear, and tear and incidental expenses amounted to 31 francs—$2.06.

In High Winds.

Despite the lightness of the machine, which seemed doomed to skid and to make leeway with the high wind, M. Barbot's speedometer showed that he covered 124 kilometers (about eighty miles) although the distance between St. Inglevert and Lympe airframe measures fifty-eight kilometers (36 miles) each way.

M. Barbot proceeded to England at an altitude of 5,000 feet. He returned at an altitude of 3,000 feet, because night was falling, and he feared he would lose the way and not find the airframe on the French coast in the dusk.

The small motorcycle engine, weighing thirty-five pounds and delivering nine horse power at a 3,000 feet altitude, averaged better than 110 kilometers—sixty-six miles—an hour on the journey.

Flies It Alone.

No destroyer, no hydroplane, no airplane, no vehicle of any kind accompanied M. Barbot on the flight, even the customary channel craft being absent because it was Sunday.

But the French war aviation veteran, fed up after three days of loneliness at St. Inglevert and encouraged by his two-hour flight at a great altitude yesterday while awaiting his escort, decided not to wait any longer. If the wind moderated, it was blowing half a gale in the morning. It kicked up such heavy seas that channel passengers were made deathly sick, many being carried off from the boats and placed on the boat trains by stewards.

"If I could see the English coast I would go now," remarked the youthful pilot—Georges is only 25—when the wind's moderation was shown by the drooping of the pennant flying on the airframe.

See Cliffs of White.

Just then Gaby, a pretty little barmaid of the Caux Pilon Auberge, spoke up:

"From the roof we can see through the trees past Cape Grey Nose to find out if the mist has lifted and Anglet (England) is visible."

"Lead me to the roof," was M. Barbot's sole reply, and everyone tumbled up the rickety stairs to the unfinished attic and through a little dormer window. Sure enough, the foliage left a slight direct across the sea, and opposite shone the indistinct white cliffs.

"Where's my life preserver?" M. Barbot demanded, and, lighting a cigarette, he started across the road to the airframe.

M. Barbot pulled down his goggles and leather helmet. He squeaked into the top seat, his head emerging, while journalists handed in a French flag folded like a parachute, inscribed, "To the British soldiers fallen on the field of battle in France, 1914-1918," which he dropped over the Lympe airframe when he arrived.

Takes Along His Passport.

"Don't forget your passport!" someone yelled, and M. Barbot waved his passport, properly vised, in case the British officials demanded his papers. Just then an assistant gave a desperate heave on the propeller and the motor started snapping and roaring like a machine gun. M. Barbot waved the knot of people away from in front.

NEW WITNESS DECLARES HE SAW BOY HAZED

Fisherman Tells of Scene on Beach.

It was reported about Evanston last night that Mayor Harry P. Pearson, said to have ordered the police records in the Persinger hazing to be altered, has been requested to return home to give his aid to the state's attorney. Mr. Pearson is taking his vacation in Tennessee.

It also was reported that several private detective agencies have indicated a number of persons who are to be taken for questioning within the next few days.

Every fraternity and class group in Northwestern university will, if necessary, be run through the mill of the Criminal Courts building to find the youths who can tell about the death of Leighton Mount, was the determination of State's Attorney Crowe.

Preparations for an intensive investigation were made last night by Mr. Crowe, who cut short his stay at a health resort to give his personal attention to the task.

His first assistant, Edgar A. Jones, had prepared for him all the known facts and the testimony, much of which was contradictory. He was told of the refusal of many persons believed to have important information to cooperate with Coroner Oscar Wolf. The altitude university officials are reported to have taken immediately after Mount's disappearance in September, 1921, and again immediately after the finding of the skeleton last Monday, was puzzling, Mr. Crowe declared.

Mobs Are Mobs.

"Mobs are the same, whether composed of university students or underworld toughs," Mr. Crowe said. "Public officials have often been criticized for not doing their utmost in an investigation dealing with gangland characters."

"Here, where university students are involved, we find the opposite condition to exist. Justice has been hampered and it should have been expected that the intellectuals would have, by precept and example, led the way."

"There are enough brains in Northwestern university to have shown the quick way to the solution of this mysterious death. No one is being accused of murder. If the guilty ones are in the death of Leighton Mount, they should be known and it is the civic duty of every one connected with Northwestern university to do his utmost to aid."

Will Cull Out Gully.

"There is one way to find out the manner in which this unfortunate student met death and why his body was concealed beneath a pile of rocks under the pier. That is to go through every fraternity and class group of students, and, by a process of elimination, find out who has guilty knowledge of the killing."

"I am going to separate the sheep and the goats, the wheat and the chaff, line up the good, honest and upright students who will help and tell the truth on the one side, and those on the other can expect little consideration. Every student who has left the college since the fatal class rush will be traced and questioned. If the guilty ones are fugitives, we should learn it as quickly as possible. We will, too, if Northwestern does its part."

Says He Saw Hazing.

The story of a man who says he witnessed an incident that might have been the killing and burial of Mount was "passed on for what it is worth" to Mr. Crowe by Chief of Police Leggett. John Strom, 728 Custer street, a fisherman, was the informant.

He said that on or about the night of the hazing he saw four boys "ducking" another in the lake, take him out, pour sand in his mouth and later put him under the Hamilton street pier. Mount's skeleton was beneath the Lake street pier.

Strom's daughters, Alice and Margaret, said their father had never told of this before, and Chief Leggett was skeptical. Strom, however, will be questioned by the prosecutor.

Special Charge by McKinley.

Chief Justice Michael J. McKinley will impanel the May grand jury this morning and give them a special charge.

charge on the seriousness of the task of solving the mystery of the death of the Northwestern university student last seen alive in the class rush of Sept. 21, 1921.

It is said Judge McKinley plans to read to the jurors the law covering an accessory after the fact in any crime committed. A body may be evidence of a crime, and its concealment in the crypt beneath the Lake street pier in Evanston would involve those who disposed of Mount's body, is the theory of the law. He said last night he did not intend to give the would-be jurors from giving the impression to the jury that any blame attaches to the university authorities.

Pastor Assails Faculty.

The Rev. D. A. Wickizer, pastor of the Sheffield Avenue Christian church, in a sermon last night at the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A. said that the hazing customs which the university faculty has allowed, though not encouraged, made them subject to criticism.

"Suppose some students do confess to the killing, probably accidental, of Mount," the pastor suggested. "They would be held for a serious crime, for such it is, but would these young men after all, be the greater criminals? Were they not engaging in traditions which the university has allowed, even though it has not encouraged them?"

"Are not these crimes the result of a system rather than of certain individuals? And is not this system to be charged to the management of the school which permits its operation?"

"The question which should concern the public and patrons of Northwestern and other schools is how long will these uncivilized and heathenish practices be tolerated. We believe that the civil and police authorities ought not only to investigate Northwestern but our state university and other schools and find out the cause of which the deaths of Mount and Aubrey are only effects."

Search was started during the day for small bones of the right foot of the skeleton when it became known that Dr. George F. Tyson, 845 Chicago avenue, Evanston, had set a fracture of one of the bones in Mount's right foot a few weeks before the class fight.

"I have no doubt that identification of the skeleton is positive," said Dr. Tyson, "but discovery of the small bones and the trace of the fracture will make us more certain."

FELL RAPS CORONER

Timothy J. Fell, attorney for the Mount family, father, mother, and daughter, Helen, yesterday explained why he refused to allow his clients to appear at Coroner Wolff's office on questioning on Saturday morning when Mr. Wolff sent for them.

"Mr. Wolff is not playing fair in this case," Mr. Fell said. "We observe him showing every consideration to the feelings of President Walter Dill Scott, even going to the extent of traveling all the way to Evanston to interview the head of Northwestern after Mr. Scott had complained he did not want to face the newspaper men downtown. But he seemingly thinks he can order my clients, the real sufferers in this tragedy, about either and on at his own sweet will."

Hints at Whitewash.

Mr. Fell said it was beginning to appear as if "Mr. Wolff wants to whitewash the university, as he has suddenly begun to lay heavy stress on the suicide angle."

The attorney reiterated his refusal to divulge the exact contents of the note written by Mount on the night he was last seen, to Doris Fuchs, his sweetheart.

"If the state's attorney believes the note pertinent evidence for the grand jury it will be produced at the proper time," he declared. "Mr. Fell's reason for suppressing the contents of the note, supposed to have referred either to the 'going away' of Mount or of the girl, was that he feared it would be utilized merely for a 'newspaper story.'"

His admission that the note still exists incidentally refutes Miss Fuchs' assertion that she destroyed it after showing it to the dead student's mother.

Detective Censures Scott.

President Scott's alleged attitude of indifference to early investigation of the case also came in for censure during the day by A. M. De Vourney, a private detective, engaged by the Mounts several weeks after their son's disappearance.

"I sent an operative of the agency I was then with to seek the personal cooperation of President Scott in the search, but with no success," said De Vourney, who has offices at 203 South Dearborn street. "Mr. Scott practically turned a deaf ear to our pleas. He was convinced, he declared, that Mrs. Mount was not 'telling all she knew.' He said he was certain she knew where her son was. He added that a number of persons had assured him they had seen young Mount alive and well some time after the night of the class fight."

MAZE OF BAFFLING FACTS AND THEORIES CONFRONT CROWE IN MOUNT CASE

State's Attorney Crowe, upon his return last night from a hectic day of court and investigation, was confronted by a maze of conflicting and inadequate facts. He at once briefed and correlated such evidence as has already been gathered. It is shown that:

That Leighton Mount, freshman at Northwestern university, disappeared eighteen months ago, on the night of Sept. 21, 1921, the occasion of the class "rush" between freshmen and sophomores, or on the morning thereafter, and that he has not been seen since except allegedly by persons whose statements are received doubtfully.

That President Walter Dill Scott of the university, after three days, called off a cursory inquiry into the disappearance of the student, and that thereafter the university maintained an impersonal and skeptical attitude concerning the missing student.

Persinger Case Cited.

For several days after the Mount disappearance the newspapers carried stories concerning it, pointing out that the youth may have been killed during the hazing attending the class "rush" or crash. Reference also was made at that time to the case of Arthur P. Persinger, another student who was reported to have been tied head downward to a piling in the lake in such a position that if he attempted to extricate himself he would fall in the lake and drown.

Upon the publication of these facts, Coroner Oscar Wolff has now learned, President Scott and Dean Roy C. Flickinger went to Mayor Pearson's Evanston, demanding that the police records be changed to modify the police report on the Persinger case.

Persinger went with the two university officials to Mayor Pearson when the record changing—which the state's attorney's attaches declared may amount to a conspiracy to obstruct justice—was accomplished.

Chief Leggett Explains.

Concerning this alteration, after the coroner had discovered it, Chief of Police Charles W. Leggett of the Evanston department said:

"President Scott and Dean Flickinger were greatly vexed. They came to the station, accompanied by Persinger. They told Mayor Pearson that publicity of this kind reflected on the good name of the university, and asked if the records couldn't be changed so the account of the treatment of Persinger would be somewhat modified. The mayor issued the orders and the change was made."

It will be shown that, armed with the changed police record, President Scott then demanded corrections of the accounts of the accounts of the Persinger case, having been from the newspapers.

Leans to Suicide Theory.

The state's attorney will be told that Chief Leggett looked upon the students' clashes and whims with a passive eye and that he appears, since making his statement of May 1, to have a leaning toward a theory that Mount may have committed suicide.

Doris Fuchs, 25 and pretty, former nursemaid and sweetheart of young Mount, the state's attorney found, has been the most enigmatic of witnesses.

When Mount was reported missing this girl stated she had told her he would commit suicide; she repeated her story at first after the skeleton with the telltale belt buckle bearing the initials "L.M." was found; she changed it and said Mount meant nothing of suicide in his statement to her, when questioned at the coroner's inquest last Wednesday; and changed it back again with additional detail to a story about threats of suicide by Mount, when questioned the following day in the state's attorney's office.

In the end, First Assistant State's Attorney Jones threw up his hands, issued a grand jury subpoena to the girl, and warned her she must tell her tale, under oath before the body of twenty-three early this week.

In the meantime, the state's attorney was assured, President Scott and the university have maintained a "peculiar attitude" toward the investigation.

It has appeared that the president, through the eighteen months that the youth has been missing, has allowed the impression to go abroad that he had at least some information concerning the student's whereabouts, that Mount had not been killed.

It is stated Dr. Scott maintained this attitude all along, despite frequent importunities of Mrs. Y. L. Mount, mother of the student, for information concerning her boy if the president had any, and that Dr. Scott told her nothing and did nothing until the sudden discovery of the skeleton.

Scott Changes Stand.

Since the finding of the skeleton President Scott has several times changed his attitude, Mr. Crowe was told.

The president, alarmed at first at the tragedy, said: "Things have gone so far, with the disclosure of the violent death of two students, that the university will turn the matter over to the state officials."

But he refused to order an official faculty inquiry into the Mount case. He stated that inasmuch as Mount had not yet joined his classes, inasmuch as the student had not paid his matriculation fee, he could not be considered as attending the university, and that therefore the university could assume no responsibility.

Seek Aid of Authorities.

Still on May 2, the trustees and president of the university passed a resolution stating among other things that "Northwestern university is determined to ascertain the cause of Leighton Mount's death and to fix the responsibility therefor; and seeks the aid of the authorities having power to subpoena witnesses and take testimony under oath."

On the following day President Scott again changed, the prosecutor's reports state; he again refused to allow the university to take responsibility; and he maintained this attitude until it was proved that the student had after all, been paid and that he was actually enrolled in the school.

Girl's Contradictions.

Doris Fuchs' contradictions were told over the eighteen months' period in which the alleged skeleton lay under the pier so close to the campus that the fishing of the surf could be plainly heard there.

Immediately after the disappearance Doris was quoted as saying that Mount professed he loved her. On May 3 she told Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Pedan she had only known Mount five months. "We were not in love with each other," she exclaimed. "Why, he never even kissed me!"

Again, after the fatal class "rush," the girl stated that Mount told her he wanted to die, but would not commit suicide, yet on the evening of May 1, after the finding of the bones under the pier, John D. Galbraith, who employed Miss Fuchs as a nursemaid at that time, said: "CORONER WOLFF."

Miss Fuchs told me that young Mount had written her a note in which he had told her he proposed to end his life in such a manner that his body would never be found. I have not seen this note."

In the face of all this, Miss Fuchs admitted she received a letter unsigned, purporting to come from Mount on the day following his disappearance. "It didn't come through the mail," she said. "It was merely stuck in the mail box. Mr. Crowe couldn't recognize the handwriting, for I had received only one letter from Leighton and I destroyed that. He may have written it or dictated it (the letter following his disappearance). I don't believe it was forged, for it mentioned things only he would have known."

Scott at Identification.

In spite of the positive identification of the teeth of the skeleton as those of Mount by Dr. F. H. Ivey, the Mount family dentist, Mr. Crowe received reports that Dr. Scott, the university generally, and many of the student body scoffed at the identification.

The one figure, Mr. Crowe was told, who could throw much light on the mystery, was a former student, J. Allen Mills, and this man's whereabouts appears to be unknown and so far efforts to find him appear to have failed.

Concerning Mills Mr. Crowe was told he was the "red-headed leader of the freshmen" in the class clash of Sept. 21, 1921.

Mills was also said to have been so alarmed that he went to President Scott the day after the rush to ask the president if he could throw light on Mount's disappearance. It is stated that he left college shortly after, intimating that he "knew something" about Mount's case.

Finally the case of Arthur P. Persinger was presented to the prosecutor. Persinger testified he was tied head down to a piling in the lake and left there for hours until rescued by two fishermen. John Tomlinson, 2600 Irvington, freshman at the time of the Mount and Persinger episodes, said this was not so.

Tomlinson said: Leighton Mount

Persinger at the coroner's inquest testified he was seized by freshmen (he was a sophomore), carried out to the piling in the lake, his hands bound, and placed head down in such a position that if he struggled to release himself he would fall in the lake and be drowned.

PRIM EVANSTON HELDS TO LURE OF DEATH PIER

Deserts Pews for Stolen Saunter to Beach.

BY MARTHA.

Evanson yesterday deserted the country club, the golf course, and even the traditional family dinner, to visit the Lake street pier where the local police a week ago discovered the skeleton of Leighston Mount. From dawn till dusk the adventurous, made a pilgrimage to the scene of the alleged hazing death of the former Northwestern university freshman.

The truly Evanstonian gentleman, in black coat and cane, accompanied by his wife, returning from morning service, loitered on the wet sand and wobbly boards. Small boys, feverishly anxious to emulate 12 year old Henry Warren, who discovered the bones, spent the afternoon on their stomachs, waiting in and out between the piles.

The Masses Here, Too.

The artisan, in Sunday clothes, and his girl, from west of the tracks, who, strolled down to the common place spot, with the ghastly memories of the scene of the alleged hazing death of the former Northwestern university freshman.

There was the group of tireless amateur detectives. One moment they had proved conclusively that Mount was murdered—the five stones piled on his chest. The next minute they had established the fact of his suicide. And then, the theory that his lifeless body had just drifted into its snug crypt beneath the pier.

Few Into Pier Hole.

Chaps who sell groceries on week days turned geologists and spoke loudly of water levels, ice expansion, the action of waves. A young woman balanced precariously on the slippery planks as she stooped and slid a white glove hand over the rim of the new hole. A white haired grandmother, half knelt, near the other hole, as she peered down to see how long it had been weathered.

Youngsters, with gawsome thrills, jabbed their baby fingers in the wet sand, hoping to find a bone, a pin, and a woman shuddered at the sight of a dead rat. But she murmured with calm decision as she gazed through the hole. "Yes, the body could have kept. It is cool and damp in there. Just like a prison cell."

Mothers Stay at Home.

But the mothers of boys now in college remained away from the pier, in the automobile, or on the greensward in front of Gen. Dawes' stately mansion.

And three blocks south and another three west, Mr. and Mrs. Mount sat quietly in their living room. A few boys dropped in, friends of Leighston's, to offer sympathy and assistance. The real rack, as Mrs. Mount pointed out, was filled with college reapers, as when Leighston had had "the boys" up.

But most of the university boys were far from the Lake street pier. Many of them, according to information received at their fraternity houses, spent the week-end in Chicago with friends. "They are getting rested," it was pointed out in every case, "for the grilling which State's Attorney Robert

Evan Fontaine and Mother Win Against Perjury Writ

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—Justice A. H. F. Seeger of the Supreme court at Newburgh, N. Y., has granted the motion of Edward J. Collins, attorney for the defense, dismissing the indictment for perjury returned in Rockland county against Evan Burrows Fontaine, dancer, and her mother, Mrs. Florence Fontaine, it was learned today.

The motion to dismiss was made upon inspection of the grand jury minutes granted by the court and was based on the allegation that insufficient evidence and evidence irregularly submitted had been placed before the grand jury. Permission to resubmit the case to the grand jury also was granted.

Result of $1,000,000 Suit.

The indictment grew out of the action brought by Miss Fontaine to obtain annulment of her marriage to Sterling Adair, a sailor, and her later suit for $1,000,000 recompense from Cornelius Vanderbilt "Sonny" Whitney for alleged breach of promise.

Until the indictments for perjury found by the Rockland county grand jury recently against Miss Fontaine and her mother were dismissed, the dancer's suit against Vanderbilt Whitney alleging breach of promise had proved a boomerang.

Death Follows Annulment.

Miss Fontaine, or Mrs. Adair, obtained an annulment of her marriage to Adair in July, 1921, on the ground that she had lived with her husband but three hours. Young Whitney's attorneys, after investigation of the dancer's history, produced evidence to show that the Adairs had lived together for a year. Adair died from a bullet wound soon after his wife obtained the annulment.

Figuring prominently in the dancer's suit was an infant boy whom the dancer alleged was Whitney's son. She said she was going to name him Cornelius Whitney. Whitney recently married Miss Marie Norton, member of a prominent New York family, at Paris.

It looked as if the state's attorney's office might be a lawyer's convention. Attorneys from Indiana; the best counsel in Iowa; a country lawyer from Michigan; a corporation counsel from Chicago. They were all on the campus.

But in the majority of cases, the lawyers were not retained. When a prominent member of the class, known not to have been in the fight, asked the family lawyer if he needed an attorney, the lawyer laughed and gave his advice to all the boys in the fraternity house.

"You boys don't need lawyers. Tell the truth, keep your heads, and it will come out all right."

DEVER PLEDGES DRIVE ON VICE AT K. C. MEETING

South Bend, Ind., May 6.—[Special.]—"I'll put an end to every vice dump and gambling den in the city of Chicago if I have the power to do it," Mayor William E. Dever told members of the student council of the Knights of Columbus of Notre Dame university tonight.

"The duty of men in responsible positions to young men of ideals and to the teachers and institutions which give them ideals of good government, is to demonstrate that good government can be had and that its processes are as simple as the mere distinction between right and wrong. When my four year term is completed I hope to come back here and say that I have kept the faith with you and with the things taught in your institution."

CECIL NOTIFIES EUROPE THAT U. S. IS "OFF" LEAGUE

Visit to America Convinces Him of Fact.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] [Copyright 1923 by The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 6.—[Tribune Radio.]—Lord Robert Cecil, who arrived home from his American trip on the White Star liner Olympic yesterday afternoon, has no illusions about America's attitude toward the league of nations, and almost his first words before he landed was to warn English advocates of the league not to place too much reliance on America coming in.

Didn't Change His View.

Lord Robert said that he is convinced that the Americans are as anxious as the Europeans to do all in their power to reestablish peace, but there is not the same unanimity there as here over the methods and machinery.

"It would not be fair to assume, however, that every one who greeted me kindly agreed with all I said," he said. "The visit confirmed me in my opinion that the only adequate way of assuring peace is through the league of nations, whatever may happen on the other side of the Atlantic. Don't look for sudden results in America. Don't look too much to the other side of the Atlantic. It is our duty here to work and make the league as strong as possible, so all the world will want to come in."

Praises U. S. Courtesy.

On the subject of the Anglo-American relations Lord Robert declared they never were so good as now, and he instanced the remarkable fact that he, a leading English politician, never once was interrupted or heckled.

Analyzing the situation in America, Cecil said that three proposals seemed to hold the field:

The outlawry of war as illegal, and setting up an international court without a force behind it, but with compulsory jurisdiction and a codification of international law.

To join the league and the international court after it goes.

Senator Capper's suggestion that the league be amended so that the United States could join it, chiefly by the elimination of articles 10 and 16.

Three Rivers, Mich., May 6.—[Special.]—The city of Three Rivers today celebrated the six hundredth anniversary of John Schweitzer. The exercises were held in the high school auditorium. Mr. Schweitzer has been a resident of St. Joseph county sixty-nine years, coming here when it was a wilderness. Mr. Schweitzer was the father of six children, five of whom are living and are residents of this city. He is keen mentally, hears well, and reads without glasses. He was a great admirer of Abraham Lincoln, who was the first President for whom he voted.

ADRENALIN FAILS TO RESTORE LIFE TO CHICAGOAN

Adrenalin, for which many claims recently have been made as a life restorer within a short time of death, yesterday failed to bring Harry Alexander, 3317 Drexel avenue, back to life.

Alexander was operated upon at the Washington Park hospital for throat trouble and, when respiration ceased a short time after the anesthetic was administered, adrenalin was twice injected into his heart. Both attempts failed.

Stephen Zaillian, a brother-in-law of the dead man, who is a confectioner at 4845 Belle Plaine avenue, asked for an inquest. He alleged poor surgery as his reason. The inquest will be held today.

Dr. W. A. Hillemeier, 6253 Ellis avenue, said death was caused by oedema of the larynx and nephritis. "The local anesthetic was administered preparatory to performing an operation," he said, "but death occurred before it was performed."

Dr. R. K. Packard, 437 East 60th street, who assisted, said Alexander died of acute nephritis.

FRANCE PASSES 'BUCK' TO U. S. IN PEACE REFUSAL

"Will Cut Reparations if Debts Are Cut."

BY HENRY WALES.

(Copyright, 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.)
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, May 6.—Emulating Lord Balfour's note of last summer, Premier Poincaré's reply to the German reparations proposals, delayed twenty-four hours while being submitted to Downing street and sent to Berlin tonight, hangs the whole question of a reduction in reparations squarely on the United States.

The French premier rejects nearly every point Chancellor Cuno made—some half heartily and others not so bluntly as expected, but he does not mince words at all when he deals with the total sum German offers.

"The figure offered represents less than one-quarter of the amount fixed by the reparations commission," says Premier Poincaré, taking up the first consideration, and then comes the nub of the whole note, couched in a conciliatory tone to make Germany accept his reasoning:

Offers to Credit Debts.

"France and Belgium have declared several times that they cannot accept a reduction in the amounts due them," it says, "and still, while they are ready to compensate a portion with the interest on the debt, they are obliged to obtain the balance to escape the terrible disaster the German invasion inflicted on them."

Thus, for the first time since the war an allied power officially seeks to entice Germany to its support in a European attempt to force discussion, cancellation or writing down of all international obligations.

Cites Expenditures on Repairs.

"The necessity of the creditor powers making sacrifices to the debtor nations if Germany expects to obtain concessions," he continues.

"France has advanced 100,000,000, 400 francs (about $6,400,000) on the account of Germany for reparations devastations, etc., and Belgium

FRENCH PLAN TO LET UNCLE SAM HOLD BAG FOR GERMANY BARED

BY HENRY WALES.

(Copyright, 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.)

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

PARIS, May 6.—The Franco-Belgian plan to make the reparations settlement depend on the disposition of European debts to America—referred to by Premier Poincaré's note to Germany today—is identical with that Louis Loucheur presented in London, and contains the British government's suggestions. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE learns this tonight from an indisputable source.

Thus Great Britain, although ostensibly having settled its American debt, sponsors an arrangement which would reopen the whole question.

The plan will be rushed to completion and within ten days announced to the world as the Franco-Belgian plan, although so far Belgium has not promised to support it.

It provides for total reparations of 80,000,000,000 gold marks ($15,000,000,000). Of this sum 40,000,000,000 gold marks will represent "present values," which capital will be raised by a loan, presumably in the United States. The remaining 40,000,000,000 gold marks will be long term bonds, supplanting the old C bonds provided for in the London settlement of 1921. These 20,000,000,000 gold marks Germany will only have to pay "if the United States insists on payment of our debts to her."

Thus, the actual allied total is set at 40,000,000,000 gold marks, which Germany is considered certain to pay.

One of the principal authors of the plan told THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE:

"We will proceed as if the United States did not exist. It is our contention that this affair concerns Germany and the allies only. If Germany wishes to ask the United States to reduce debts so reparations can be reduced, that is not our matter."

has advanced 15,000,000,000 francs ($2,999,000,000), and it remains for each power, apart from pensions, more than half the devastations, to still be indemnified."

The note continues that not only the economic interest of France and Belgium, but of the whole world, as well as justice itself, requires that the country ravished should not be left longer condemned to ruin to add to the enrichment of the debtor state.

Premier Poincaré recalls that the allies have already refused to take the control of reparations from the reparations commission and declares

France will not place them in the hands of a committee of business men and bankers, an international tribunal, or any one else.

Declines New Trade Offer.

Regarding the "treaty of God" which Chancellor Cuno offered, Premier Poincaré states the treaty of Versailles is the entente's guarantee pact and he declines to abandon the right of military sanctions and seizure to enforce the execution of the treaty.

Premier Poincaré affirms against the French and Belgian decision "not to evacuate the territory newly occupied except in proportion to the payments of reparations affected."

Rejecting Chancellor Cuno's demand for a most favored nation clause, Premier Poincaré points out that this would permit Germany immediately to benefit and profit from the ruins she caused in Belgium and France and assure herself—Germany—of industrial superiority over the countries she devastated, while if France and Belgium abandon their guarantee they will be exposed to the violence and agents of the German government.

The note ends with a sarcastic remark that the German government would realize itself if it read its own note that it is not astonished that such an offer is refused.

Germany See Loophole.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

BERLIN, May 6.—The Germans see a loophole in France's answer if the United States will consent to some form of debt cancellation or transfer of a portion of the French debt to the United States to Germany, funding it over a long period of years.

The French note gives the possibility of the German answer enabling them to correct some portions of their original proposal, which might make it more acceptable to the allies. This answer probably will be made when Chancellor Cuno addresses the Reichstag late this week.

The French note was telegraphed to Chancellor Cuno and President Ebert at Potsdam.

STATE INTEREST MONEY INVOLVED IN VETO BATTLE

Legislature to Decide Fate of Prosecutions.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., May 6.—(Special.) Gov. Small's veto of funds for Attorney General Brundage has forced another issue that calls for a showdown in the legislature.

It involves the pending chancery suits for recovery of $2,500,000 interest on public funds that Mr. Brundage says has disappeared.

The attorney general says Gov. Small can account for the disappearance of about $2,000,000 of this money. The legislature is to be confronted with the proposition of saying whether it wants to learn where the money went, or is content to let the people draw their own conclusions, while the mystery remains unsolved.

The legislature faces this question now or less indirectly in the impending battle over the veto next Tuesday. It is placed squarely up against the proposition in a bill to be introduced this week.

Act to Be Passed.

The bill calls for a special appropriation of $75,000 to carry on the civil suits against the governor and four former state treasurers, to force them into an accounting to show where interest earnings went.

Gov. Small's $513,300 veto included the entire $250,000 law enforcement funds out of which the state interest suits would be financed. Slashing of this entire fund is regarded as a move by the governor to thwart the pending suits.

Thus, according to the Brundage camp, has forced the issue as to whether the legislature is willing for a showdown in the interest suits. It can answer the question by its action in veto or in a vote on a specific appropriation for the purpose.

The special appropriation may be introduced the first thing Tuesday by Senator James J. Barbour (Rep., Ill.), or some other member of the vigilante committee of the senate. The bill has been drafted and is ready to offer.

Text of Bill.

The text of the bill, in part, follows:

"Whereas, litigation is pending against Len Small and other former state treasurers of the state of Illinois for the recovery of interest earned upon public funds of the state and unlawfully withheld by said former state treasurers, approximating $2,500,000; and

"Whereas, said litigation is in the form of six suits in chancery, which will ultimately be referred to masters in chancery and the character of the proof will require the services of attorneys, accountants, court reporters, and the payment of fees of masters in

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., May 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Small's veto of funds for Attorney General Brundage has forced an action here that calls for a showdown in the legislature.

It involves the pending chancery suit for recovery of $2,500,000 interest on public funds that Mr. Brundage has disappeared.

The attorney general says Gov. Small can account for the disappearance of about $2,000,000 of this money.

The legislature is to be confronted with the proposition of saying whether it wants to learn where the money went, or is content to let the people draw their own conclusions, while the matter remains unsolved.

This, according to the Brundage camp, has forced the issue as to whether the legislature is willing for a showdown in the interest suits. It can answer the question by its action in veto or in a vote on a specific appropriation for the purpose.

The special appropriation may be introduced the first thing Tuesday by Senator James J. Harbison (Rep., Ill.), or some other member of the vigilante committee of the senate. The bill has been drafted and is ready to offer.

Text of Bill.

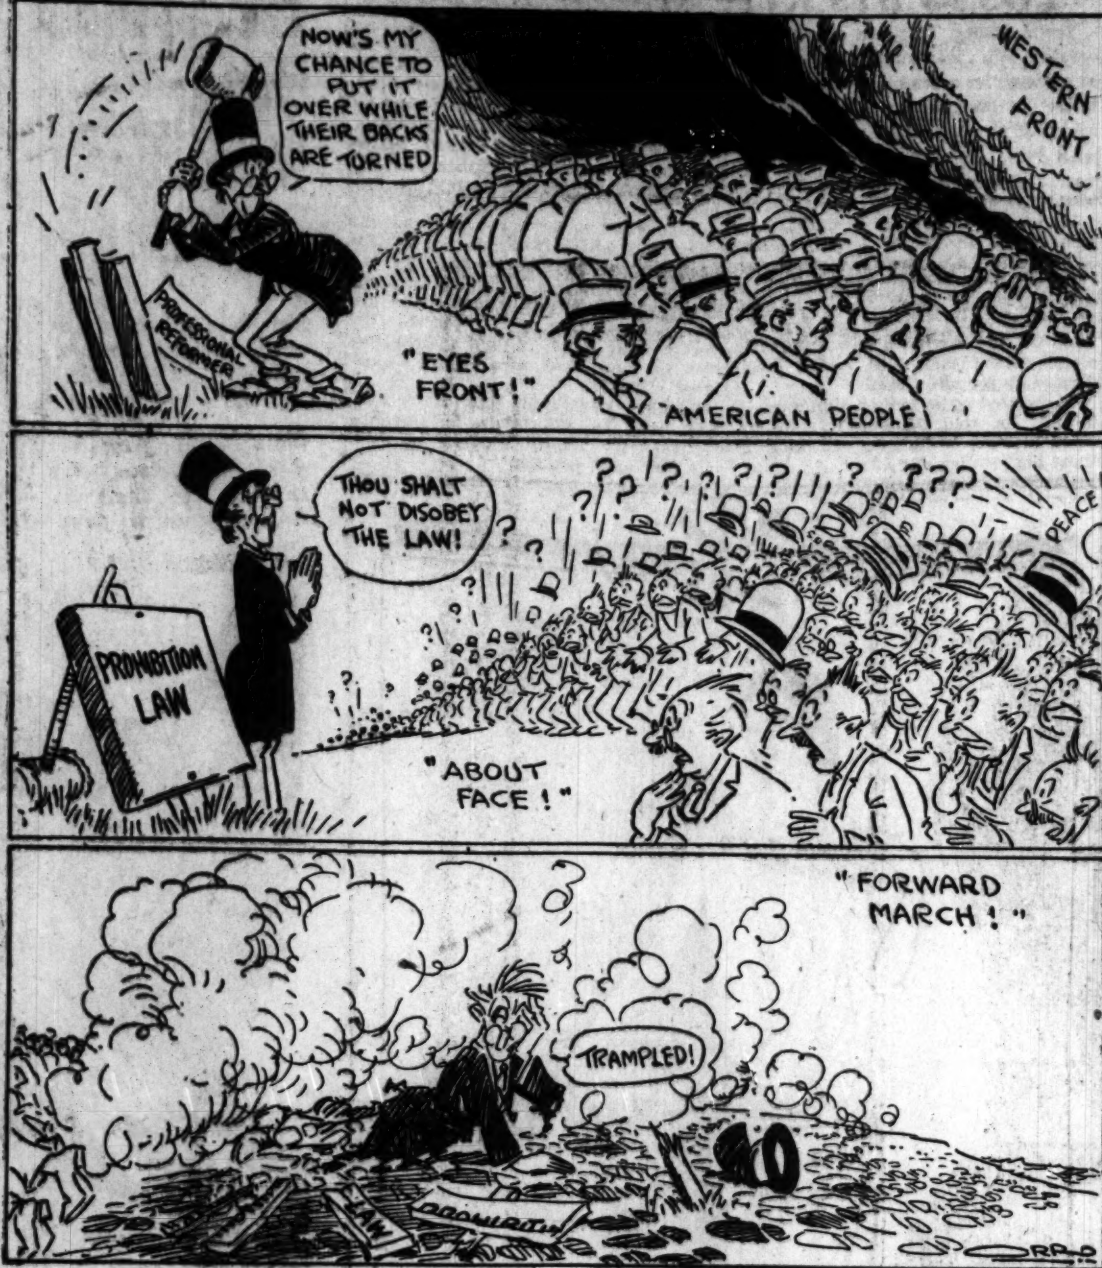

The text of the bill, in part, follows:

"Whereas, litigation is pending against Len Small and other former state treasurers of the state of Illinois for the recovery of interest earned upon public funds of the state and unlawfully withheld by said former state treasurers, approximating $2,500,000; and chancery, costs of records and incidental expenses and.

"Whereas, by the exercise of his veto power, the governor has left the attorney general without adequate funds to prosecute these suits for the recovery of the people's money; therefore, be it

"Enacted by the people of the state of Illinois, represented in the general assembly:

"Section 1.—That the sum of $75,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary be, and the same is, hereby appropriated to the attorney general for the preparation, trials and appeals of the suits for accounting and discovery now pending in the courts of this state, in which the people of the state of Illinois are complainants and Len Small and other former state treasurers of Illinois and other parties named are defendants, and for any other suit or suits of a similar character which may be commenced by the people of the state of Illinois against said above named defendants, or any of them."

Fight Nears Denouement.

The suit against Gov. Small rapidly is nearing denouement. The governor's plea for abatement and dismissal of the case has been taken under advisement by Judge Norman L. Jones in the Sangamon Circuit court.

The four other state treasurers against whom suits for accounting and recovery of interest have been instituted by Attorney General Brundage as a result of disclosures two years ago are: Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, State Auditor Andrew Russell (two suits for two terms as treasurer), E. E. Mitchell and William Ryan. Alleged shortages occurring before the Small régime (1917-1919) are a mere fraction of the $2,000,000 grab charged against the governor and his colleagues.

GOOD ROADS BILL FINDS SENATORS' MOTIVES DIVIDED

Some See Only Home County Lines.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] Springfield, Ill., May 6.—[Special.]—Both wings of the state capitol will be scenes of important happenings in the Illinois legislature next Tuesday.

While battle lines are being drawn for the big fireworks of the session—the fight in the house over the Brundage fund veto—the senate will have the $100,000,000 road bill under consideration. The road bill may be sent to a roll call before the week is over.

The referendum clause is the strong feature of the bill. It has given some opponents of the governor's plan an excuse for voting for it.

The road bill has split the legislature into several groups. Members who will oppose it to the end apparently form the smallest class.

One group is for the bill, politics and all. Their support is due to various causes. Another crowd, believing in some degree of bond legislation, would favor a similar measure if it were not made for politics. The third group of supporters is by far the largest. It exemplifies the composite view easily expressed in the referendum clauses. In this group is a merger of economics, politics and a willingness to "pass the buck" to the public.

A Republican member of the house who expects to vote for the bill because it may be the best chance his district will have to get paved roads, expressed himself thus:

"I'm willing to leave the entire matter with the folks at home. If the bond issue passes somebody besides Small will sell the bonds, spend the money and build the roads, so why worry about the truth of all his claims?"

Senator Searcy (Rep., Sangamon) expects to press his amendment to increase the bond issue to $150,000,000, which he says will be required to build all the roads the governor has promised. The administration is expected to ask which is the greater of the two bills.

1. "Too much mileage for $100,000,000, or

2. "Such a large bond issue that it will mortgage the automobile license fees of a distant posterity."

CITY SEEKS TO DO OWN PAVING; SAVE MILLIONS

Dever and Sloan Order Bills Drafted.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Dever and President Sloan of the board of local improvements have worked out a plan to save property owners between $5,000,000 and $7,500,000 on paving costs in the next four years. The saving claimed is approximately 50 per cent.

This announcement is premature from the administration viewpoint, some detailed figures it desires to collect and correlate before making the scheme public. But the saving claimed is so drastic a reduction in the gross income of the paving contractors that the general plan leaked out.

The idea has progressed to such an extent that Corporation Counsel Busch and his second assistant, Leon Hornstein, yesterday began drafting the necessary enabling legislation.

City Will Bid for Own Work.
Briefly, the bill will empower the commissioner of public works to construct special assessment improvements by day labor. Of course it will have more words, but they will not mean any more than is contained in the preceding sentence. If the bill is passed, the commissioner of public works will have the power to bid against the contractors for the privilege of constructing paving and other work paid for by special assessments. The department now has three asphalt plants, located conveniently in three sections of the city.

"I know," said Mr. Sloan, who has collected considerable data at the request of Mayor Dever, "that the city can do the work by day labor for 30 per cent less than the contractors are now charging. I am speaking of asphalt pavements, which comprise about 75 per cent of the paving work. The special assessment paper now being peddled at 80 cents on the dollar will go to par immediately after the city finishes its first big job. The city itself can go into the business on an extensive scale with a revolving fund of $1,000,000."

Seek to Fortify Powers.
Mayor Dever was in the city council when former Mayor Harrison obtained the major portion of his reputation on construction, which he gained by day labor on new construction. Mr. Sloan was then an administrative official of the city. Harrison was stopped by a court decision obtained by the contractors. Mayor Dever and President Sloan propose to get in a position legally where they cannot be stopped by means of enabling legislation.

During the last four years of the Thompson administration his board of local improvements spent $19,576,607 for pavements. But during two of the years, 1919 and 1920, there were obstacles to extensive work. In four normal years it is estimated the city would spend $4,000,000 a year for pavements. At that rate the saving claimed per year would be $1,800,000. But at the rate the city has been going the last four years the claimed saving would be $1,448,000 per annum. UP-LAKE VISITOR, HERE TO BURGLE, LOSES HIS KIT
Erwin Bauer, 22 years old, of Milwaukee, Wis., was an enthusiastic reader of detective stories and "wild west" tales. In imagination he saw himself carrying out the feats of his heroes with ease. So when he found himself short of money he decided to "go west" to Chicago.

He arrived Saturday night and picked out Peacock's jewelry store, Adams and State streets, to work on. Unfortunately, Policeman George Larson, on fixed post there, noticed Bauer's unusual interest and arrested him. At the station a new automatic pistol, fifteen cartridges, and a flashlight were found on him.

"I wanted some money and wanted it bad," he told the officers. "I decided to come to Chicago and stick up some big jewelry store."

OFFICE BOY FELT UNDERPAID; TOOK $1,500; NABBED
New York, May 6.—[Special.]—Leslie Spraley, 16 years old, known as the "prize office boy," who was employed by the Daniel Levinson Street Mills in Chicago, was given $1,500 by his employers last Monday to deposit in a Chicago bank. Instead of depositing the money he boarded a train to New York. Since his arrival he has been seeking the sights under the guidance of a kind-hearted taxicab chauffeur, who introduced him to cabarets and a bookmaker.

When detectives arrested him tonight at the Grand Union hotel he had $50 left out of the $1,500. He was caught after he had mailed the firm its bank book in a Grand Union hotel envelope.

Spraley, confessed, the detectives said, that he had taken the money. He said he did so because he had not been paid enough.

CHICAGO'S JEWS GIVE $1,630,000 IN SINGLE NIGHT

Rosenwald's $155,000 Heads Gifts.

(Picture on back page.)
Shock troops, named at the Auditorium theater last night, started to drive for $2,500,000 for Jewish hospitals and other institutions. The initial collection brought the objective well in sight. A total of $1,630,000 was contributed or pledged.

Julius Rosenwald headed the list with a subscription of $150,000 for the fund and $5,000 as a memorial fund tribute to the late Emil O. Hirsch Sinai temple.

Edward Katzinger and Maurice Rothchild each pledged $50,000. Dr. Lasker, Albert H. Loeb, Max Straus and Stinson W. Straus each donated $20,000, while Max Epstein, Harry Hart, Max Hart and Samuel J. Straus donated $25,000. The Selz family and the Spiegel family each gave $20,000.

Loeb Tells Aim of Drive.
Jacob M. Loeb, former president of the Chicago board of education, chairman of the drive committee, making an appeal that helped launch the drive, said the drive was to be done with the money.

"We are to build a nurses' training school and home, a new Mount Sinai hospital, and new branches of the Jewish People's Institute," he said. "We are driving just for cold stone, brick and mortar? No! We are to build new Jewish community. We are providing for the future. We are safeguarding against revolution. We are raising the bulwarks against anti-Semitism."

Other speakers included Dr. L. L. Mann, who arrived from New York yesterday to fill the pulpit vacated by the death of Dr. Hiram Fisher. Gen. Abel Davis, Judge Harry Fisher and Judge Henry Horner.

Hospital to Be Enlarged.
The committee members said that the money now in prospect would be used to bring the total number of beds in Michael Reese hospital to 521, making it largest accommodations of a hospital in Chicago, excepting county hospital.

Rosa Raisa, grand opera star, and her husband, Giacomo Rimini, were among the donors.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

RETAILERS · WHOLESALERS · MANUFACTURERS · IMPORTERS

Retail Store · State, Washington, Randolph and Wabash

AMONG the single achievements which may be regarded as characteristic of Marshall Field & Company is that of the Silk Section. To have become, as it has, a great headquarters for silks is the result of steady building and development throughout half a century.

Into its structure have gone a recognition of the value of quality above everything, with the conviction that a satisfied customer means a permanent customer; a sure instinct for style tendencies developed through an organization which is constantly as much in touch with the large silk centers of other countries as with those of America; a thorough knowledge of the public's widely varied needs and tastes. So, a perfected organization, it has come to stand at all times for the high type of service and progress most sought by this institution in all its phases.

Summer Announces Her Arrival With New Frocks of the Lighter Silks

Three are Specially Priced at $65

SUMMER steals in almost imperceptibly, but there comes a day, usually before May is very far advanced, when the official Summer frocks, those in fine, lightweight fabrics, make their appearance out-of-doors. Crepe Georgette, with its airy delicacy, promises to dwell on the height of the mode this season, but it will be closely accompanied by crepe de Chine and some of the other graceful silks. The three Dresses illustrated above are only a few from the delightful collection in our Costume Room.

Left—of printed Georgette with pleated panels edged with plain crepe. The sleeves are long and pleated and the sash is of blue moiré. In black and white, brown and white and navy and white.

Right—of figured crepe de Chine trimmed with bias folds of white Georgette. The skirt is wrapped, and drapes in attractive lines. In tan and the lighter Summer shades.

Center—black Canton crepe, the straight lines of which are emphasized by four panels of fine pleats. Its white braid makes a smart contrast of color.

MACKAY TO LAY NEW ATLANTIC CABLE IN JULY

Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph-Commercial cable system, yesterday announced that his companies have completed contracts for the laying of a new cable in the Atlantic ocean which will operate directly between New York and London.

The new cable, which will be the first to be laid in the Atlantic between America and Europe since 1910, is now being manufactured by the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance company and Messrs. Siemens Brothers and will be laid by Aug. 1.

The new cable will be the largest ever laid in the Atlantic and will have a capacity of twice that of any cable now in service between the United States and Europe.

Engineers of the Commercial Cable company, who have designed the new cable, estimate that its speed will be approximately 900 letters per minute in both directions simultaneously, or a total of 1,800 letters a minute, which will make the fastest cable in the world to date.

Its dimensions will be much greater than those of any other cable. Its conductor requires an average of about 1,100 pounds of copper per mile, as against an average of about 700 pounds per mile in the heaviest cable now in use.

WOMAN'S DEATH LAID TO RUM.

Mrs. Mary Boyers, 40, 110 West Cornell street, was found dead in her home yesterday afternoon by members of her family, probably a victim of moonshine poisoning.

These are without doubt the outstanding Suit values of the season. The woollens are our own—of exceptional quality—secured at a decisive saving in price. We had them tailored in our own workrooms in a manner befitting their character. All are beautifully silk lined and trimmed—all have two pair of trousers. Styles are smart and new, also conservative. Patterns are refined. Their very extraordinary merit is readily apparent.

RADICAL GROUP INVITES PUBLIC TO RAIL CONFAB

Congressmen, Governors to Meet in Chicago.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—The La Follette radical group in congress, styling itself the "progressive group," which includes Democrats as well as Republicans, has issued an invitation to the public to attend a national conference on May 25 and 26.

The invitation is extended formally by the committee on transportation of the progressive group in congress, of which Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.), an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination against President Harding, is the chairman, in cooperation with a group of western and midwestern governors.

Both Parties on Committee.
On the committee of members of congress with Senator La Follette are Senators Ashurst (Dem., Ariz.), Brookhart (Rep., Ia.), and Sheppard (Dem., Tex.), Representatives Cooper (Rep., Wis.), Huddleston (Dem., Ala.), and Logan (Dem., S. C.). The "operating group of governors" includes G. W. P. Hunt (Ariz.), William E. Sweet (Colo.), N. E. Kendall (Ia.), Jonathan M. Davis (Kas.), Joseph M. Dixon (Mont.), J. C. Walton (Okla.), and John J. Blaine (Wis.).

The invitation to the Chicago conference, which announces that Mayor William E. Dever will extend the welcome to the assemblage, sets forth the following purposes:

1. To promote and to protect the public interest involved in the valuation of railroad properties now being made by the interstate commerce commission, and particularly for the purpose of preventing excessive valuations of railroad properties, which will result inevitably in the imposition of

LEGION NOTES

Col. A. A. Sprague will speak at the regular monthly meeting of the Jans A. Delano post this evening at 7:45 o'clock at the Chicago Nurses' club, 115 South Michigan avenue.

The regular monthly meeting of the National post will be held tonight at the Morrison hotel. E. F. McGinnis, chairman of the San Francisco convention arrangement committee for the Cook County American Legion association, will announce plans for the attendance of Chicago legionnaires.

Western Union post will meet in the Assembly hall at 427 South La Salle street tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Arrangements have been completed for a dance to be held at the Auditorium hotel May 30.

unreasonable charges for railroad transportation.

1. C. C. Is Amal.

2. To take the necessary steps through action before the interstate commerce commission, in the courts, and elsewhere to require the interstate commerce commission to comply fully with the provisions of the interstate commerce act authorizing and directing the valuation of railroad properties and particularly to require the commission to perform the duties specifically imposed upon it, but which the commission has as yet failed to perform.

3. To organize, maintain, and support such proceedings as may be deemed advisable to accomplish the foregoing purposes.

Political leaders on the Republican side see in the conference, which is being engineered by Mr. La Follette, considerable significance in view of the fact that President Harding is preparing to make the railroad problem one of the most vital issues of the Republican campaign next year.

Seek to Get "Jump" on Harding.

Senator La Follette and his associates propose to get the jump on the administration in the railroad issue, although they do not know exactly what President Harding may propose to solve railroad ills.

"The national conference on railroad valuation represents the first concerted movement to insure proper representation of the public interest in the valuation proceedings before the interstate commerce commission and the courts," Senator La Follette said.

"This movement for the equitable valuation of the railroads of the United States is not to be interpreted as an attack upon the interstate commerce commission. Up to the present time the commission has been in the position of having only one side—the railroads—adequately represented before it. We propose that in future the public interest shall be effectively and vigorously maintained."

OBREGON SPURNS U.S. INTERFERENCE IN LAND POLICY

Mexico City, May 6.—[United Press.]—Neither domestic nor foreign influences will cause the administration of which I am the head to deviate from the path set as a program by this government.

This statement, made by President Obregon today to a convention of farmers, caused a deep impression. Obregon said it would be foolish to suppose the realization of his agrarian program would be achieved without differences arising with "vested interests." On the other hand, he said, it must be remembered that the program found vigorous echo in the national conscience, and all that was wanted to make it a success was the frank assistance of the masses.

U.S. OFFICIALS OFF FOR MEXICO TO TALK IT OVER

Washington, D. C., May 6.—Whether an end can be brought to uncertainty in relations between the United States and Mexico which has existed for nearly a dozen years depends on a venture in statecraft initiated tonight with the departure from Washington of Charles B. Warren and John Barrow, American commissioners recently designated to meet with representatives of the Mexican government in Mexico City.

The two commissioners were accompanied by a small staff of experts, including Matthew Hanna, chief of the division of Mexican affairs of the state department. They expect to arrive in Mexico City Friday, making the trip by way of New Orleans and Laredo.

While of massive size this suite is characterized by dainty hand carving and delicate inlays of holly, rosewood and ebony color with inserts of rare burl walnut.

The sideboard is seven and one-half feet in length and other pieces are in proportion. There is a server with cupboards below, a large cabinet of unusual design, carved chairs and a magnificent double pedestal table that extends to ten feet.

Sevon went on talking. The man struck him on the head with the butt of his revolver, inflicting a scalp wound. The blow cracked the end of the revolver, the pieces falling to the floor.

"Him!" remarked the robber. "I'm glad I didn't shoot you. The bullet would probably have bounced back."

Sevon was able to proceed home after his wound had been dressed. A pair of youthful robbers, riding in a large touring car, kidnaped five men within an hour in the Irving Park and Shakespeare avenue districts and took $37 and jewelry amounting to $200.

They made their first appearance about 1 p. m., when they kidnaped H. E. Deger, 3204 Cullom street, near his home. He was driven to Montrose and Central Park avenues, where he was robbed of $4, a gold watch, and a platinum scarf pin.

About three-quarters of an hour later they picked up Herbert Dahlberg, 3523 North Tripp avenue, at Central Park and Barry avenues. They drove him to Eldridge and Central Park avenues, where they also took Frank Oeder, 2721 North Central Park avenue; John Hoppe, 2283 North Ridgeway avenue, and Anthony Spies, 2709 North Lawndale avenue, into the car. The four men were robbed of their money and jewelry and turned out at Bloomingdale and Central Park avenues.

With a loaded revolver one had stolen from his father, three boys held up three men at Lawndale avenue and the drainage canal yesterday. The victims, Joseph Kasoun, Henry Schauer, and William Spubka, were robbed of $17, two watches, and a quantity of jewelry.

The boys were later found loitering in the neighborhood and arrested. Their names are given as James Hos-palek, 16 years old, 3204 South Lawndale avenue; Michael Zontrask, 14 years old, of the same address, and Vladimir Hasman, 13 years old, 2124 South Millard avenue. Hasman admitted stealing the revolver from his father.

Julius Linard, 1515 West Jackson boulevard, was robbed of $12 by three armed men at Randolph and Curtis streets.

KEEP GIRL FROM MOTHER ON EVE OF SHILOH QUIZ

BY DONALD EWING.

St. Joseph, Mich., May 6.—[Special.]—Pearl Flake, 14 year old Chicago girl, brought here yesterday by Michigan authorities to testify in the inquiry into the alleged lack of morals in the House of David cult, will be the first witness at tomorrow's session, with night scenes in "King Benjamin" Purnell's sleeping quarters again scheduled to be the subject. Pearl and her mother ran away from the House of David some time ago. Pearl, munching from a bag of candy given her by a newspaper woman, today was in custody of a

W. C. T. U. matron, despite the pleas of her mother that they be not separated.

Instructions whispered to Pearl enroute here to "stand by Benjamin" caused assistant attorney general to order that communication between the two be cut off until after the girl had testified.

In the few words she has been permitted to say to newspaper men, Pearl has told of being called into Benjamin's room on several nights, but she denies there was anything wrong.

"Benjamin is a nice man," she said, "and he never tried to harm me."

Following Pearl, several other girls are scheduled to testify.

Sheriff George Bridgeman has asked Chicago police to hunt for Grace Fratt, 11 years old, whose home is in St. Paul, but who left there May 4 to go to Benton Harbor. She was to have come here Saturday after changing cars in Chicago, but has not arrived.

The girl was expected as a witness and is believed to have important information bearing on the life in the colony of the bearded "King."

CHICAGO LEADS FOR REPUBLICAN '24 CONVENTION

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(Special.)—Republican party leaders here are already inclined to accept the recent prediction made by Fred W. Upham of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican national committee, that Chicago already has enough votes pledged in the national committee to assure it the 1924 Republican convention.

Although the convention is more than a year off and the final selection of a convention city will not be made until December, there seems to be unusual interest in the matter this early in the political game. At the headquarters of the Republican national committee here are no figures or records to confirm the Upham estimate, but officials of the committee do not discount the claim of Treasurer Upham, who is leading the fight to take the convention to Chicago.

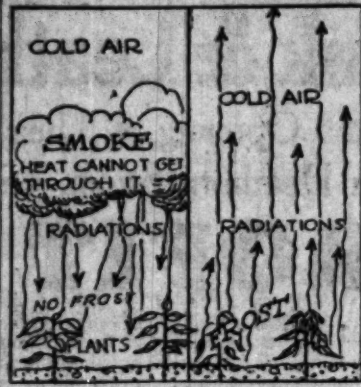

Twenty-nine Pledges Are Claimed. The national committee, it is explained, does not keep track of convention city pledges made in advance by national committeemen and therefore is unable to check up Mr. Upham's count.

However, Mr. Upham is regarded here as a conservative politician and it is quoted in Chicago dispatches, he claims his city has twenty-nine pledges in hand the average Republican leader here is willing to bet that he has them.

Democrats Quiet as Yet. Such a number of pledges, if they hold, will put out of the running San Francisco, Cleveland and Washington, the three rivals of Chicago in the 1924 convention controversy. San Francisco is reported to have approximately twenty pledges from committeemen of the far west.

Outside of San Francisco's bid for both conventions, little interest has been shown so far as to the Democratic gathering next year. The Democrats

Balking Jack Frost

This diagram illustrates how a blanket of smoke prevents frost from forming on growing plants. The smoke is an insulator of heat. When it is spread over a field it prevents the heat already in the plants from leaking out, even though the temperature of the air should go several degrees below the freezing point.

had a great time in San Francisco in 1920, and many of them want to return. If it becomes apparent that Chicago has won the Republican convention, San Francisco will concentrate on appeals to the Democratic committeemen.

St. Louis and Washington are regarded as contenders for the honor of entertaining the Democratic politicians, but the Democratic convention city campaign has not yet warmed up.

TAKEN ON DELINQUENCY CHARGE. Jack Werner, 24, 424 East 43d street, was arrested yesterday, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Belle Cohen, 16, who disappeared three weeks ago.

SMOKE BARRAGES TESTED TO ROUT GARDEN FROSTS

BY SELBY MAXWELL.

Smoke screen barrages are being used experimentally to rout Jack Frost in tests which are being made at the Edgewood arsenal. The chemical warfare service and the weather bureau are cooperating under direction of Prof. H. H. Kimball to find some means for preventing large fields of vegetables from being damaged by frost. The experiments give promise of success.

After the war the government found itself with large stocks of chemicals on hand and no immediate use to put them to. Frost prevention seems to offer a profitable avenue for the disposal of much of them.

Deluge Farms with Vapor. Smudge pots have been in use for many years as a means to hold back freezing temperatures, and they have made a good showing on a small scale. It is now planned to deluge whole farms with vapor whenever the air seems right for a damaging frost.

Several conditions are necessary to bring about a killing freeze. The barometer must stand high and the air must be cold and wet at sunset with a wind that dies down as the night advances, so that before sunrise a calm shall prevail. Frost does not form when the wind is blowing. In a rolling country it is always the low lying sections that are frosted and the high places that escape, under these conditions.

How Smoke Screen Works. Once a cold, wet calm has come, icy air from high in the sky begins to get to the earthward. Soon a layer of freezing temperature lies along the ground. Clear air is an excellent carrier of radiated heat. In a little while every substance, such as a plant, which can not draw up a rapid supply of heat from the earth to replenish its radiation, is covered with ice crystals. The ice forms directly out of the air. A smoke screen is heavy and lies along the ground. It is opaque; one cannot see through it, and heat cannot get through it. It acts like a blanket, shutting in the plant's heat and shutting out the cold clear air from outside. Records indicate that smoke screens have been able to keep the ground temperature above 32 degrees, or freezing, when the air immediately above had gone down to 27 degrees, and was cold enough to wither every green thing it touched.

UNION OFFICIALS GIVE THEIR CURE FOR MINE EVILS

Agreements to Safeguard Workers Urged.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(Special.)—Fundamental principles designed to remedy the ills of the coal industry are set forth in statements today by Philip Murray, vice president, and William Green, secretary, of the United Mine Workers of America.

The statements as made public were submitted to the commission in response to a plea to its members that the miners and operators, instead of throwing stones at each other, press something of a constructive nature. "Every consideration of elementary justice and human right demands that the question of nonunionism in the unorganized fields be settled promptly and in a spirit of real courage and public spirited statesmanship," said Mr. Murray. "By an aggressive, fearless attitude the United States coal commission can compose all differences which exist in the unorganized coal mining sections of the country. The can further provide a peaceful and prosperous basis for collective bargaining."

Favors Working Agreements.

"The only practical way in which this can be done is to bring about the nonunion mining industry of the country working agreements which will safeguard the rights of mine workers. The safeguards which are essential to regularity of production and peace and tranquility are:

"1. Freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of movement."

"2. Right of all workers to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing."

"3. Protection of mine workers against discrimination because membership in the United Mine Workers of America."

"4. Assurance that democratic institutions, such as the United Mine Workers of America, will not be so dominated to industrial control by a practice of the nonunion coal operators in paying and controlling deputy shifts, and constables or by employing private guards."

Would Restore Peace.

"These are the simple fundamental which will restore and permanently establish the normal conditions of a governing republic in these regions. Mr. Green in his statement emphasized collective bargaining and recognition."

We are sending you from New York today a complete laboratory report on the antiseptic Zonite, and a bottle of the product for testing purposes. Doctors are busy men, constantly showered with advertising letters and pamphlets. We take this method, therefore, of calling your particular attention to the importance of the report sent you by this Company, and present herewith a few of the facts most essential to a knowledge of our product.

Zonite is a concentrated, stabilized and improved form of the Carrel-Dakin Solution prepared by a patented electrolytic process. It more nearly approaches the ideal antiseptic than any other germicide now available.

We make this statement knowing that it has been substantiated by exhaustive laboratory and clinical tests and that it has been endorsed by every biologist and surgeon who has investigated the product.

The disadvantages of the Carrel-Dakin Solution are difficulty of preparation, lack of uniformity, instability and loss of effectiveness in the presence of organic matter. On the other hand, Zonite is ready to use, uniform, stable and much more efficient in the presence of organic matter. As an indication of this you will find below two tables and a chart which are the result of a laboratory investigation of Zonite and Dakin's.

Stability test of Zonite and Dakin's over a period of five months

The laboratory making the test to the left has the following to say in their report concerning same: "In order to determine stability, samples of Zonite were kept under observation for a period of two years and the total available chlorine determined every two months. During the first year no detectable loss in strength occurred while less than 0.3 of a gram per liter was lost during the entire period."

Phenol coefficient test of Zonite and Dakin's against B Typhosus suspended in water

The test to the right shows the relative effects of Phenol, Zonite and Dakin's Solution upon typhoid bacilli when suspended in water in the absence of large quantities of organic matter.

Please note that in the absence of organic matter the variation in germicidal strength between Dakin's Solution and Zonite is almost exactly in proportion with the amount of available chlorine present.

Determination of the relative germicidal properties of Zonite and Dakin's in the presence of saliva

In the test to the left the exact conditions of organic matter in the human mouth were reproduced and are entirely comparable so far as organic materials are concerned to the fluids present on the other mucous membrane surfaces of the body. Please note that a 1:100 dilution of Zonite containing 0.09 gram per liter of chlorine produced complete sterility in five minutes while it required a 1:10 dilution of Dakin's containing 0.468 gram per liter of chlorine to accomplish the same result. Compare this test with the one above and observe the diminishing power of Dakin's when approaching the conditions encountered in actual use.

The above tests and many more are contained in the report we are sending you. This report and clinical investigations show that:

First; Zonite is stable. Second; Zonite is more than six times as effective as Dakin's in the presence of organic matter and more than three times as effective at the same hypochlorite strength. Third; Zonite has greater penetration than Dakin's. Fourth; Zonite has less coagulating and haemolytic action than Dakin's. Fifth; Zonite has less irritating properties than Dakin's and permits a far greater regrowth of tissue and reconstruction of animal cells.

These things being true, we affirm that because of its non-poisonous character, high germicidal efficiency and non-caustic properties, Zonite widens the opportunity of the layman to cooperate with you in the practice of preventive medicine and solves the hypochlorite problem for professional and general use finally and effectively.

Should any physician or dentist anywhere desire a bottle of Zonite for testing purposes, kindly let us know.

and started. Running for thirty yards, he elevated and took off as light as a feather. Then, without looking back, he started climbing. It was just 5 p. m., and twelve minutes later the sky spoke faded from sight.

Some went back for more of Gaby's mixed vermouth, and others invaded the wireless room, where the operator was snapping out signals to the Lympne station to look out for the air flier. The strong breeze caught M. Barbot, slowing up the trip across, but at 6:31 Lympne cracked back, "Barbot landed safely."

Then every one rushed to congratulate Emile Dewoitine, constructor of the air flier, who was nervously adjusting with his watch.

Starts Return Flight.
Before M. Dewoitine could finish acknowledging the toasts the wireless operator, a French lad, and his assistant, galloped in shouting in French: "Barbot has started back!" M. Barbot left Lympne at 6:55.

Then came an anxious wait, relieved by the breeze falling away to a seephy, but darkness was falling. The air-dome was lighted up and a big searchlight turned on. Finally a couple of rockets were shot off in the dusk as the time went on.

At 6:53 Gaby, the heron, solemnly asserted she heard a motor, and sure enough in five minutes the steady hum of M. Barbot's little Clerget motor was audible to all, and then suddenly the air flier burst into view, swooping already for the land. Three spectators were nearly run down by the little machine, but the pilot picked

because of the pure air

When you enter a theatre you have a right to demand and expect pure air to breathe every instant you are there.

Balaban & Katz regard it as a distinct obligation and a good business investment, to furnish air that is so pure and invigorating, that it puts you in the right frame of mind to enjoy the performance—so that instead of becoming drowsy and disinterested, you are wide awake and alert every moment of the time.

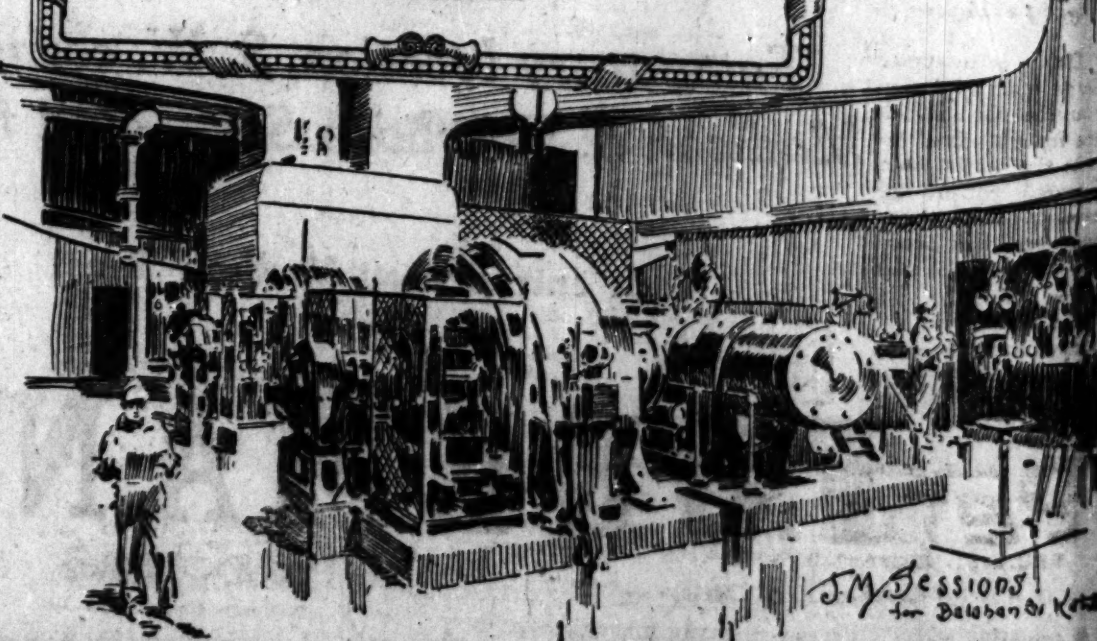

Speaking straight from the shoulder, when you enter our theatres you are under our protection. We have no more right to permit you to breathe impure air, or to allow you to sweeter on warm days, than we have to subject you to discomfort, insult or annoyance.

And it is just as much our obligation to maintain and operate great freezing plants to keep these theatres cool, when the air outside is hot and humid. These freezing plants are ready NOW for instant use. At the first sign of hot, humid days these theatres will be as COOL as a summer resort.

Doubtless it is our recognition of all these obligations which makes our theatres just as popular in the balmy days of spring or in the hottest days of summer, as in the height of the so-called winter theatrical season.

FASCISTI STILL HOPE OF ITALY, SAYS LAW EXPERT

But Sees Many Battles
Facing Party.

BY V. DE SANTO.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune.]
ROME, May 6.—[Tribune Radio.]—The recent resignation of one of the Fascist leaders, Sig. Deveschi, from the Mussolini cabinet has caused much comment in political circles. Some say it is proof that trouble is brewing within the Fascist party, which, having obtained its power by revolution, will not be able to retain it for two reasons:

1. Because the Italian people will not stand the dictatorial régime instituted by the Fascists.
2. Because, owing to the personal ambitions among the Fascist leaders, they will not be able to hold together.

Premier Favors Moderation.
Other observers affirm that Sig. Deveschi's resignation represents further proof of Premier Mussolini's great ability as a statesman and his will to rule with moderation and with all due respect to the constitution and institutions of the land. These observers affirm, also, that Sig. Deveschi resigned because he was asked to do so by Sig. Mussolini. They say the premier thought Mr. Deveschi had better go because, a splendid soldier and more splendid Fascist organizer, he proved to be a poor statesman and wished to make a thunder and fire government, uttering horrible threats against the enemies of the Fascist when enemies either did not exist or were so powerless that they could be easily disregarded.

I asked Ciriaco De Masi, one of the most prominent lawyers in Italy and not connected with any political party, who is reputed to be the best informed man in the capital on political affairs, to make a brief objective analysis of the present conditions for THE TRIBUNE.

Lawyer Explains Situation.
"I shall begin by saying that over 90 per cent of the Italians believe firmly that fascism saved Italy and perhaps a good part of Europe from bolshevism or social and economic ruin. The same percentage has unlimited faith in Premier Mussolini's great ability as a statesman and respects his strength, admires his moderation, and trusts his judgment.

Devecchi had better go because, a splendid soldier and more splendid Fascist organizer, he proved to be a poor statesman and wished to make a thunder and fire government, stirring horrible threats against the enemies of the Fascist when enemies did not exist or were so powerless that they could be easily dispatched.

I asked Ciro Conello of Rome, one of the most prominent lawyers in Italy and not connected with any political party, who is reputed to be the best informed man in the capital on political affairs, to make a brief objective analysis of the present conditions for this Tribune.

Lawyer Explains Situation.

"I shall begin by saying that over 90 per cent of the Italians believe firmly that fascism saved Italy and Europe a good part of Europe from bolshevism or social and economic ruin. The same percentage has unlimited faith in Premier Mussolini's great ability as a statesman and it respects his strength, admires his moderation, and trusts his judgment. "But Premier Mussolini is by no means lying in a bed of roses. He has many troubles ahead of him; many fights to fight. His greatest trouble is derived from the fact that fascism grew too rapidly and reached a disproportionate size. Personal ambitions among his followers exist and constitute a danger to the compactness of the party.

Accept No More Recruits.

"But Premier Mussolini is aware of this and already has given the order that no more persons will be accepted in the Fascist party and has ordered also a revision of all registrations and the expulsion of all unworthy persons.

"Another great danger is represented by the Fascist labor league, which has grown to immense proportions in the last few months. Two years ago labor unions organized by the Socialists after twenty years of socialist propaganda amounted to over 2,000,000 members. A great majority of these laborers have entered Fascist organizations. There is some doubt in the minds of many observers as to whether they can be truly converted to fascism or intense nationalism and whether they can abandon the internationalism and hatred against the capitalistic class preached to them for so many years.

"In conclusion, fascism has no outside force to fear. If the Fascist abide together they will rule Italy many years. And I believe the Fascist will conquer and smooth out all party troubles if Premier Mussolini holds out. All depends on him."

All in your home should know it. Show them at once what it does.

Why teeth grow dingy

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

That film is the teeth's great enemy.

It absorbs stains, then forms a dingy coat. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why 49 in 50 suffer from tooth troubles. Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

Now you can combat it

Dental science has in late years found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. These two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application. That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Careful people the world over now use it, largely by dental advice.

A new dental era

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents. These combined results mean a new dental era.

You will be amazed

This test of Pepsodent brings a new conception of what clean teeth mean. Present the coupon for it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

In a week you will know what is best for you and yours—the old ways or the new. That decision is important. Cut out the coupon now.

Prettier teeth
everywhere

You see prettier teeth now wherever you look, for millions are fighting film. So it is the world over. Careful people of some 50 nations now use Pepsodent every day. This test will show you why. No one can see the Pepsodent results without wanting them continued.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

To clear your skin

If your skin is red, rough, blotchy and clogged with dirt and oil—don't pinch it and press it. That increases the irritation and sometimes causes infection should the sensitive skin become bruised by the finger nails.

The use of Resinol Soap and Ointment is a very simple and pleasant way to overcome this condition. It can usually be relied upon for prompt and satisfactory results even in severe stubborn cases.

Full directions for this treatment accompany every package of Resinol Soap and Ointment. You will also find there detailed instructions on the care of the hair—why Resinol Soap is ideal for the hair—why it should be adapted for the daily bath.

An hour later, lunch being over, and found Hector Gaunt there housed, and an Italian girl he had discovered, named Jean, was Louise, and she with his shirt sleeves rolled to the elbows, negligently into belted trousers, had been tethered in the tiny strip of terrace he had unloaded a choice and unpacked but with their necks wrapped in olive oil, and a small cask. He had taken it for granted that Modesta, with her curiously assorted arrangements for her.

She, poor woman, almost wept to have things done for her that she had never enjoyed.

It suddenly occurred to her that for fifteen years she had never enjoyed a home of her own. True, the Villa Modesta was only a rented home, a paragon of a landlord, but in her eyes it was beautiful. And she could see how, with a touch here and there, with flowers and cushions and furniture covers, it could be made a very haven of joy.

Gaunt had come out to the gate to greet them and explain his own presence on the premises, and it was thus that Hugo Gaunt and he met for the first time in all the twenty years of Jean's curious marriage. The last occasion had been here in this town in the old Villa Modesta, something more than a good stone's throw distant from where they now shook hands with each other, displaying a gravity which was not in the least of overdone despondency.

Poor Hugo looked an awestruck little fellow, and he was small hand to the big paw of Hector Gaunt. There were no more protests from the pleasures of hotel life and tucked away house. Gaunt, behaving as he would around the long, wide, coming overlooking the sea, but direct these were invisible by reason of the covered the steeply terraced slopes hang mysteriously between sky and the palms. There were just enough on the main floor, and a dark kitchen. The strip of garden also it was long and narrow, just a few beds and an earwig arbor furnished from his fit of overdone despondency.

Hector Gaunt and Jean sat in the garden, and he was left to wait while Gaunt discussed Jean's clothes, and also give this no longer be required.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Doris Blake Says!

TODAY IS LUCKY FOR LEADERS. Mars is in trine with Saturn today, the aspect determining influence for good in the undertaking of any public movement or for starting any sort of campaign. This is held to be a lucky rule for all who carry big responsibilities.

A checked birthday with gains and losses, pleasures and troubles, is heralded for the year ahead. Those in employ are urged to be careful and run no risks.

Children born on this day may have eventful careers in which strife and changes may occur frequently. A distinct fondness for public life marks those of this birthday. In the proper setting and environment you will shine, but the trouble lies in your so often not attaining it. You are rather inclined to be critical of others but totally blind to your own shortcomings. You have much persistence, stubbornness, and audacity. You are shrewd in a way. You have spells when you are hard to please and hard to get along with. You love sport, theaters, social entertainment, and public gatherings. You are most abrupt at times and prone to confide frankly the sins of others to them, but you will not have the compliment returned. You have a good opinion of yourself and not totally unwarrantable for you have some fine traits, as you are perfectly aware. You have a practical side to your nature and you will probably succeed in accumulating good deal of money in your lifetime.

Nice Girls Don't.
"Dear Miss Blake, I went with a fellow for about a year, and during our friendship, he gave me several pieces of jewelry. We quarreled recently, and I'd like to know whether it is proper for me to return the jewelry or keep it. I will do whatever you say. ALICE."

BEAUTY ANSWERS
BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
M. B.: BLACKHEADS REQUIRE extra attention daily in the face washing process. Get good soap. First cleanse the face with a good cleansing cream [if you haven't knowledge of such I will send you a formula for a good one]. Then with warm water and a camel-hair scrubbing brush scrub the face thoroughly. Rinse with warm water, then with ice cold, or rub ice over the face to close the pores. Before the cold rinse press out as many blackheads as you can. It takes time and patience to correct this kind of facial blemish. Drink three pints of water a day. And avoid rich, greasy, and fat foods, substituting green vegetables and fruits as much as possible.

A. D. G.: A GOOD DANDRUFF remedy is 60 grains of sulphur mixed with one ounce of vaseline, applied every other night to the scalp with massage.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Salad Jellies.

The safest of emulsified is none too safe for jellied timbales of vegetables. Glass and earthen are better but offer a difficulty when the unmelting is done. Tin cups with seams are likely to be absolutely unsafe.

It is one of the idiosyncrasies of human nature that these gelatin things seem to become most popular just as they become most unsafe as foods, or as the warm weather approaches. Certainly a highly ornate and pleasant tasting gelatin salad can be produced filled with all the colors in vegetables—with the bright red of the tomato, the yellow and orange of the carrot—which latter may be in strings or in figures or strips or tiny balls or cubes—and the white of the little cauliflower flowerettes and green diamonds cut from string beans. But when the gelatin is added to these, which are first cooked, the preparation should be eaten within a few hours, and never after it has stood over night. There is a little should always be ice cold to promote the rapid setting of the gelatin because this rapid cooling also makes them safest to eat.

Dirt and grime destroy clothing. That is why it is economy to dry clean suits and coats regularly.

THREE CORNERED BUILDING FIGHT DUE ON JUNE 1

Eyes of Country Centered Upon Chicago.

The attention of the building industry of the United States will be centered on Chicago next month during the three cornered fight between the Building Trades council, the two contractors' associations and the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award.

The agreements of the nineteen Landis award unions, which comprise the present trades council, expire June 1. The citizens' committee has announced it will continue its activities until July of 1925.

The first break in the Chicago situation came several days ago when Harry Jensen, president of the Carpenters' District council, issued an ultimatum to general contractors operating under the Landis award that unless they employed union carpenters on Chicago work their out of town construction would be tied up. Jensen said this action has the approval of his international organization.

Much Out of Town Work.
These contractors, according to Jensen, include the Thompson-Gilbert company, the Geo. A. Fuller company, the John Griffiths and Son company, the Landquist-Hiley company and the Austin Construction company.

The capital invested in out of town construction work under the jurisdiction of these contractors amounts to approximately $20,000,000. The Chicago carpenters were placed on an open shop working basis along with twelve other building trades by the citizens' committee for abrogating Landis award contracts.

Prior to the Landis award the Associated Builders of Chicago had a membership of approximately 1,300 contractors. Lately its membership has dwindled to 400 contractors, many of whom are small home builders.

Sign New Agreements.
The bricklayers and the stone masons recently signed new wage and working agreements with the Associated Builders, the former getting a wage boost from $1.10 to $1.25 an hour. This is a minimum wage rate, but the national scarcity of bricklayers has created such a demand for them in Chicago building that wages paid by contractors all over the city. The stone masons' wage rate was boosted from 80 cents an hour to $1.05.

The Associated Builders are standing pat on the Landis award and have pledged their support to the citizens' committee.

Officials of the Building Construction Employers' association are faced with dissension in their ranks over the citizens' committee's announcement that

New York, May 6.—Receipt of news today that the Florida legislature had created a new county and named it after Barron Collier, special police commissioner of New York City, was followed by announcement that Mr. Collier will spend $10,000,000 in Florida west coast improvements.

Collier now owns more than a million acres of west coast Florida land. He has spent more than $2,000,000 in the district, extending railroads and giving the section better navigation facilities. One project completed is a deep waterway from Everglades, which probably will be the seat of Collier county, to the Gulf of Mexico.

It will continue as a factor in the building industry until 1925.

up the Chicago situation or face trouble out of town construction, many of the large contractor members of the association have threatened to break away from the association unless it severs its affiliation with the citizens' committee. This group of the association forms what is called the contractors of the "skyscraper" type of buildings.

Other members of the Building Construction Employers' association want to "go along" with the citizens' committee until the expiration of its activities, July, 1925. Some definite action regarding a future policy on the situation is expected to be taken by the association before June 1.

The Building Construction Employers' association negotiate wage and working agreements with 85 percent of the building trades, the Associated Builders with the remaining 15 percent, the majority of which have been declared open shop by the citizens' committee. So far no agreements have been signed this year with the exception of the bricklayers and stone masons.

Third Factor in Dispute.
The third factor in the controversy is the Building Trades council. Last December Edward Ryan, president of the trades council, sent a communication to officials of the thirteen so-called open shop building trades. The communication requested officials of the unions to lay before their memberships the advisability of accepting the Landis award until its expiration.

Five of the thirteen trades voted to accept the proposition. Upon these five trades the fight June 1 will be centered. Officials of the Building Trades council feel that the activities of the citizens' committee should halt on the expiration of the Landis award. They put forth the claim that the committee's decision to remain in the building industry is only a subterfuge to "crush trades unionism" in Chicago and that the fight may as well be made on June 1 as later in the year.

Crisis on June 1.

The citizens' committee feels certain there will be no cessation of work on June 1. The large contractors believe there will be a tie up unless some sort of an agreement is made with the "outlaw" building trades. The Building Trades council is pledged to support the five trades which have complied with its request.

This is Home Garage Week

What's missing in your Home Garage? Check up!

If "the lady of the house" is to be judged by the condition of her kitchen, surely her husband can be judged by the condition of his home garage.

How about yours? Is your tool equipment complete? Are your supplies adequate? Is everything in apple-pie order?

Do you always have on hand an adequate supply of the correct grade of Gargyle Mobiloil?

The best operating results are secured by having your oil at the proper level before you leave your home garage.

Again, every motorist knows that his crankcase should be drained regularly and an entire fresh supply of oil put in. This is best done when the engine is warm. And for this purpose also, you should at all times have a good supply of Gargyle Mobiloil in your home garage.

is the most important single supply you can put in your Home Garage.

How to buy for your Home Garage

During this week of May 7th to 12th, dealers all over the country are giving the home garage owner special attention. They have put in ample stocks of all grades of Gargyle Mobiloil in the larger containers.

Gargyle Mobiloil comes in 1-gallon and 5-gallon cans and 15-, 30-, and 55-gallon steel drums, equipped with a convenient faucet. The 5-gallon can and 15-gallon drum will undoubtedly be very popular during Home Garage Week. The oil is cheaper than when bought in the 1-gallon can.

See your dealer today. Most leading dealers are displaying the Home Garage Week sign in their windows. They have the Vacuum Oil Company's complete Chart of Recommendations. On it you can quickly find the correct grade of Gargyle Mobiloil for your car.

At the same time that you buy your Gargyle Mobiloil, check over your tool and emergency equipment. Most of your summer needs can be anticipated at this one time.

TEN DAY BREAK TURNS BIG LOSS FOR GRAIN MEN

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Sixty million dollars was taken off the grain prices held by farmers throughout the United States by the decline in values the last ten days of the drop in the potential wealth of the agricultural interests was due largely to the government's action against speculation in sugar. An advance of 20 a pound on sugar on the basis of the annual per capita consumption would mean $6.50 to the theoretical cost of the consumer's sugar bill for a year. To save these few dollars the government has brought about the effect of which has been many far reaching than it was possible to conceive when the effort to check the rise in sugar prices started. The rise has been largely responsible for a drop of almost 50 a pound in cotton, which is practically $250 a bale. Speculators have also declined sharply, and losses to investors have been far up in the millions of dollars. The aggregate decline in commodities reaches staggering figures.

Declines in Grains Drastic.

A break of 80% in wheat, 45% in corn, and 5% in oats in ten days ordinarily would be enough to warrant a good rally, but speculation has received such a setback that it may be slow to recover. Naturally there should be a good rally from the low point, but whether it holds is the problem confronting the trade, as it has become as bearish now as it was bullish a week ago.

Heavy deliveries of grains on May 1, aggregating nearly 25,000,000 bu in all markets, of which more than 15,000,000 bu was at Winnipeg, have exerted a depressing influence on values, as the shipping demand has disappeared holders and caused liquidation.

Good rains in Kansas, Oklahoma, and throughout Nebraska offset the effect of drought in the central west and improved crop conditions in the southwest. It also assisted in checking the speculative buying and induced selling for profits and on stop loss orders. With a check to the buying by speculators in general the situation in all markets changed, and, while values are regarded as too low, considering the cost of production, it is a case of supply and demand for the time being that dominates the grain markets.

Government Report Due Tomorrow.

A government report is due after the close on Tuesday. It will give a seasonal loss in wheat acreage and a higher condition than that of 73.3 in April, estimates ranging up to 75. Last year it was 83.8. A condition of 75, with a loss of around 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 acres, might give a winter wheat crop as large as the 38,000,000 bu of last year harvest time, should there be a maintenance of a condition around 80.

May wheat closed Saturday at $1.18, loss of 5% for the week; July, $1.17, loss of 4%; September, $1.15, loss of 4%. Prices for the week follow:

French "Flivver" Plane Sets Record—Natural Amphitheater to Be Scene of Dempsey-Gibbons Fight.

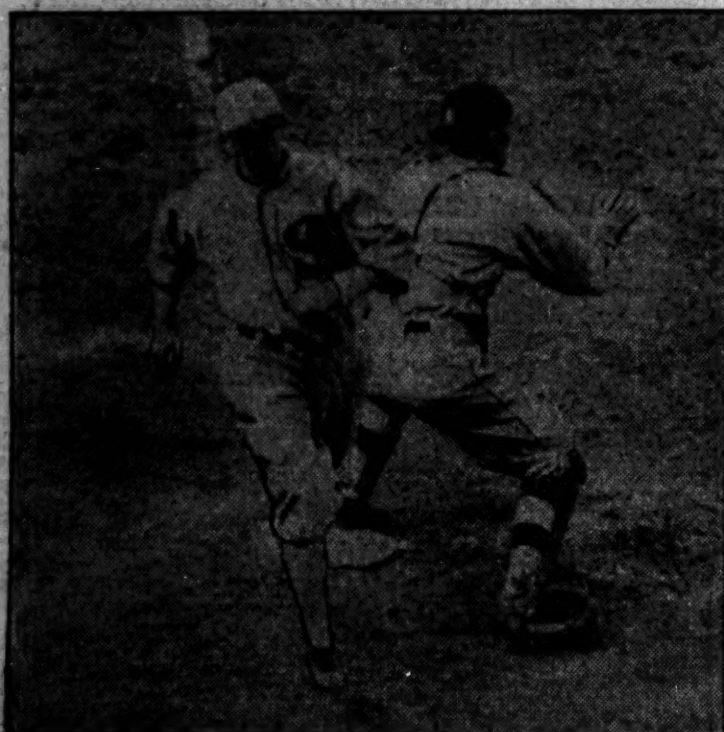

ILL-FATED PIER CENTER OF INTEREST TO EVANSTON AND UNIVERSITY FOLK. Hundreds of Northwestern students and faculty members with hundreds of Evanston residents yesterday visited the pier at the foot of Lake street, Evanston, under which was found the skeleton of Leighton Mount, N. U. freshman, believed victim of hazing battle. The youth's bones were buried under a pile of rocks, and were discovered by a boy playing beneath the pier.

SAW MOUNT HAZED. John Storm, fisherman, says he saw youth ducked in lake.

NERVE AND A GOOD HORSE. Capt. W. D. Van Ingen, in charge of Troop C, 14th Cavalry, clearing triple bar at 5 feet 6 inches, at Fort Sheridan.

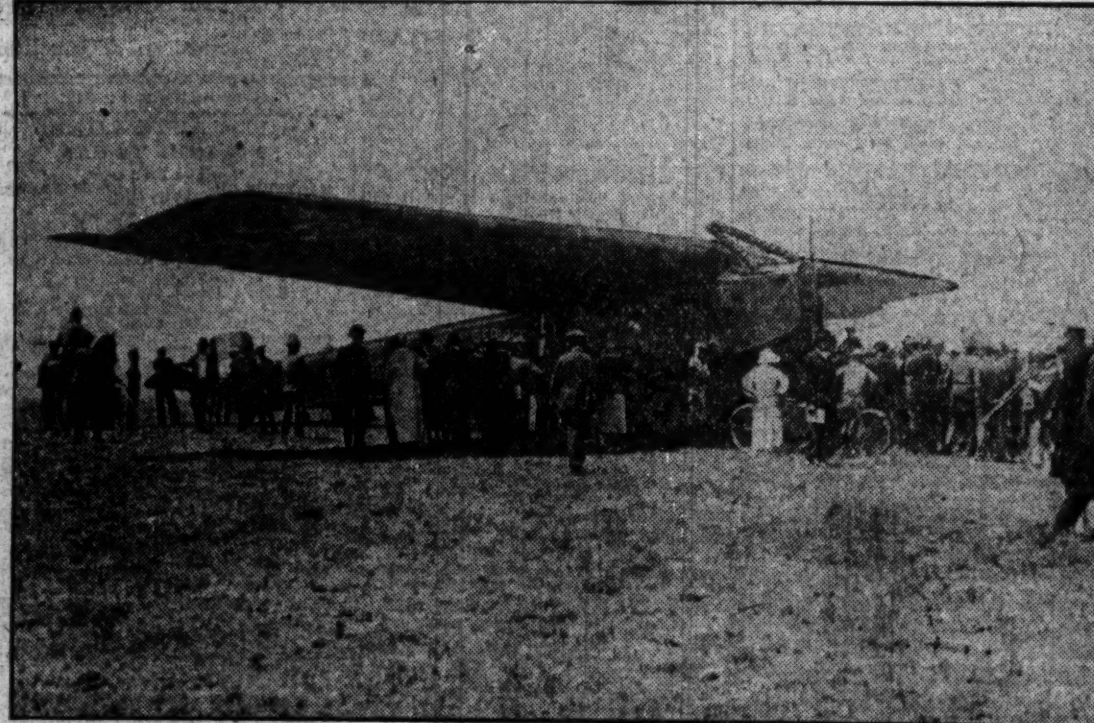

COMING HOME WITH WINNING RUN. McClellan, Sox shortstop, crosses plate in eighth on single by Sheely. Sox won from the Tygers, 4 to 3.

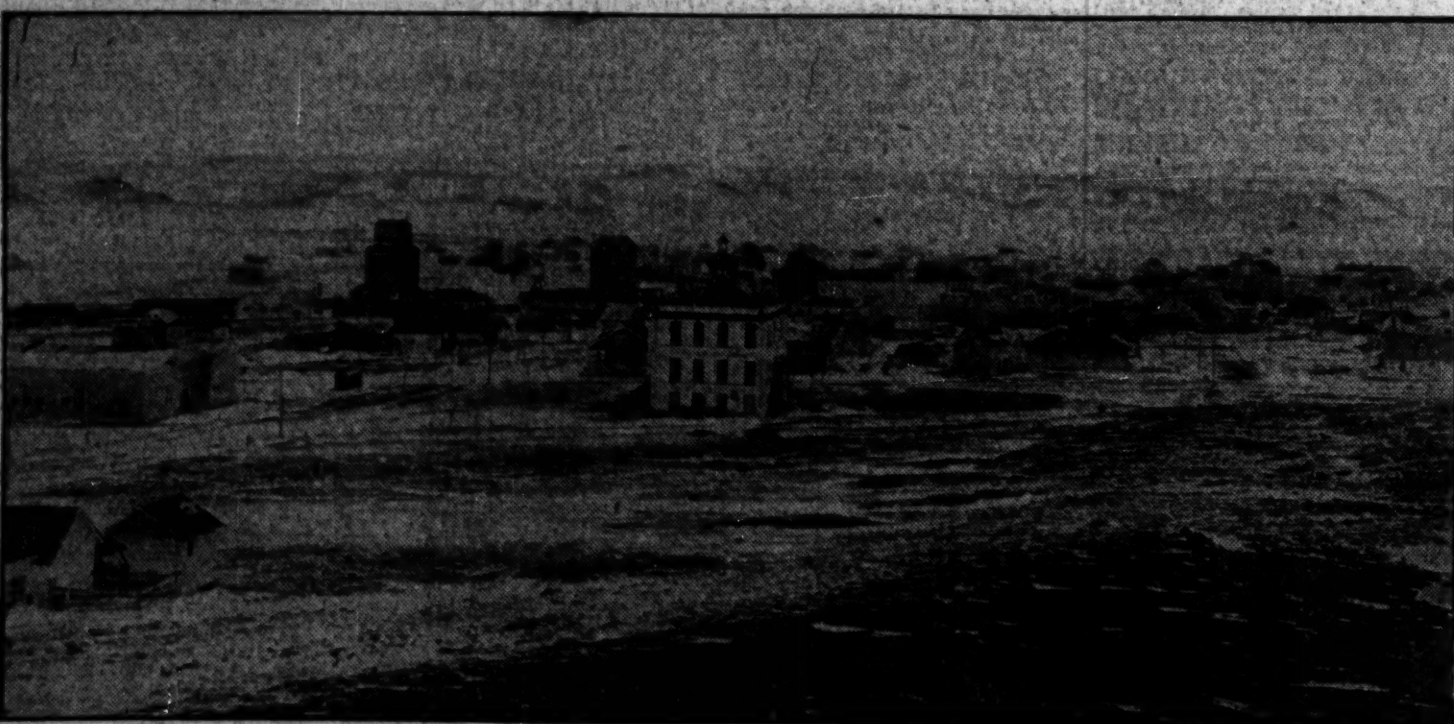

MAKING THE GOING MORE PERILOUS. Should any one of these horses stumble while doing this tandem jumping stunt it might bring disaster to all of them. This was the feature of the show staged by Troop C, 14th Cavalry, at Fort Sheridan yesterday. It won hearty applause from the spectators.

FLIES 80 MILES FOR $1.38. Aviator George Barbot (at right) yesterday flew across the English channel and back in his "air flivver," the motor of which weighs only 35 pounds. He averaged 66 miles an hour.

ARMY AVIATORS COMPLETE RECORD NONSTOP FLIGHT ACROSS U. S. This picture was taken just after Lieuts. Oakley Kelly and John S. MacReady had landed at San Diego after flying in one hop from New York in less than 27 hours.

TOWN WHICH NOW HOLDS SPOTLIGHT OF THE SPORTING WORLD. This is a view of Shelby, Montana, the little western town which has landed the championship heavyweight match between Jack Dempsey, title holder, and Challenger Tom Gibbons for July 4. Promoters expect the receipts to pass the million mark.

WHERE DEMPSEY AND GIBBONS WILL STAGE HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT. Montana state officials and officers of American Legion chose this natural amphitheater for the scene of the big bout on July 4. In 1886 a pitched battle between Blackfoot and Sioux Indians took place at this very spot.

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
SHANGHAI, May 7, midnight.—The latest reports received through consular channels say the Chinese troops pursuing the Lincheng bandits have become sufficiently close to begin parleys and talking has replaced the shooting.

PEKING, May 7.—The Chinese government received word tonight that troops today attacked the bandits who had up the crack express train en route from Shanghai to Peking at Lincheng yesterday, capturing about nine hundred foreigners, the majority of whom were Americans. The outlaws put the foreigners in the front lines. It is stated that two Americans and one Englishman were shot. Joseph Rothman, an Englishman, was killed in the attack on the train.
The government report appears to confirm my private advice that one American army officer was shot, either Maj. H. F. Pinger or Maj. R. A. Allen. I have confirmed reports of the release of Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr., Miss McFadden, and other women who were not able to keep up with the pace of the fleeing bandits. They reached Lincheng very ill from exposure, having been compelled to leave the train scantily clad.

Demand $1,000,000 Ransom.
None had money to telegraph or travel to pawn, but they managed to get word through to Tainanfu, where a special train was formed, including a physician and nurse and also food and clothing, to bring Miss Aldrich to Peking, where she will probably arrive tomorrow night.
Dr. Houghton, with another physician and a nurse, also left Peking tonight and will probably meet the train en route. The Tribune believes that all the women have been freed, but the men, including J. B. Powell, Chicago Tribune correspondent, are still captives. Robert Scripps, American publisher, was not on the wrecked train and arrived here later. The bandits are demanding a ransom of $1,000,000.

Both the American and British legations here have filed strong protests with the Chinese foreign office.
A meeting of the diplomatic corps here is awaiting the return of United States Minister Jacob G. Schurman, who will probably after his plan of visiting Shanghai, from which Mrs. Schurman was to sail on the President Lincoln on May 12.

Withdrawal of recognition of the Peking government is being considered, but owing to the possibility that such action would involve the vacation of treaties exacted during the last fifty years, the legations are consulting their home governments.

Government Sends Troops.
The government has ordered troops from Chihli, Shantung, Anhwei, and Kiangsu provinces to search for the bandits, but the outcome is very doubtful as such a disposition will aid in prospects of civil war.
President Li Yuan Hung has sent a messenger to Peking asking the approval of Tiao Kun, the Chihli warlord, for the issuance of a mandate authorizing the military and civil governors of Shantung for their failure to protect the railway. These men are strong henchmen of Tiao Kun. Doubtless he will fear to remove them, especially when their cooperation is necessary to obtain the release of the captives from the bandits.

Women Tell of Attack.
Six survivors among the foreigners reached Tientsin today aboard a special train. From them, chiefly Mrs. Pinger, wife of Maj. Pinger, the Tribune obtained these details:
The bandits spent more than two hours searching the train. Mrs. Allen and myself being the only women to escape. All foreigners save four were carried off. My 8 year old boy and Allen's 12 year old son are among the captives.
About 500 bandits attacked the train after derailing it. They kept their search until dawn, confining passengers to their berths while continuing on page 4, column 3.

NEW RABBI HERE. Dr. Louis Mann comes to take pulpit of Sinai temple.

BANDITS' VICTIM. Oscar Sevón suffers scalp wound at hands of robbers.
